4-H Club Gets Help

The Daly City Fire Department has installed a portable fire pump at the isolated 4-H farm site near John F. Kennedy School in the San Bruno Mountain foothills for use in protecting the property.

Chief Keith Schrock approved the long-term loan of the pump after he learned no fire fighting equipment was on hand there.

The pump is a gasoline powered self-starting engine that draws water from an underground spring on the property.

Along with the pump, the department turned over 100 feet of 1½-inch fire hose and a control nozzle. All hands at the site have been trained in its use, Schrock said.

Thirty-eight youngsters are now enrolled at the Daly City-Colma 4-H club. Their ages range from 9 to 18 years old.

San Bruno Employes

Strike Meet Today

By BOB PETERSON

San Bruno's city government is in a strike crisis situation.

Public works employes have called for a 5 p.m. meeting Wednesday to take a strike vote.

Firemen also plan a meeting (as yet unannounced when or where) to "discuss job action," polite words for strike, according to H. C. "Dutch" Harmelink, international representative of the International Association of Fire Fighters.

Harmelink said he didn't know what the fire fighters would decide but said "whatever they do, we're in their corner."

Frank Gillis, union representative for the public works firemen and library employes of Local 2190, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO (AFSCME) didn't mince words at Monday night's council meeting.

"We do not intend to be blackmailed by accepting a two-year agreement that forecloses the possibility of improving our livelihood in future years," Gillis told the council.

The disgruntled union employes' position was outlined in a single-spaced two-page legal-sized report, which Mayor George Corey said was "not a fair representation" of the issues at hand.

City Manager Gerald Minford began at 4 a.m. Tuesday morning to prepare a "position paper" to give the city council's side of the story. That position was not available this morning.

According to the union's position, Minford is "trying to coerce and intimidate the unions into signing a wholly inadequate two-year contract."

The union paper says the city manager is maintaining that (Please See Page 2, Column 4)

City Hall's Viewpoint Is Offered

San Bruno's official body is standing pat in its position, while employe unions threaten to strike.

A press release "to provide accurate information about labor negotiations" was issued Tuesday morning.

"We (the city) regret the need to do so," said the release. "Negotiations until now have been private by mutual agreement.

"But the release of inaccurate information and misleading statements at the (Monday night) council meeting by the union requires that the city provide accurate information to the public."

The city release pointed out that raises for employes representing four other labor unions have already been granted, "resulting from signed two-year agreements with the city."

According to the press release, the action to implement salary increases was accomplished first to meet a legal requirement of setting the tax rate.

A second reason was because some employes who are affected by the salary increases are not members of a union.

The council adopted a resolution that provided top step salaries of $1,190 a month for fire captain and $1,039 a month for firemen, reflecting a 3.2 per cent increase.

In addition a 3.5 per cent increase was approved for librari- (Please See Page 2, Column 1)

D.C. Has 31.9 Per Cent Minority Population

Daly City, with its reputed "lily white" Westlake and Serramonte districts, has a minority population of 31.9 per cent, according to a population and housing report recently made public.

City Planner John Walker said the minority population of the city has risen sharply over the past 10 years.

The 20-page report, complete with supporting charts, was compiled by Walker, Bill Wojtkowski, assistant city planner; Tom Miller, planning intern, and Jo McHugh, planning department secretary.

Minority trends and current population made up only a small part of the report.

One of the items brought a ripple of laughter from the City Council when the report was presented this week. In the "married" category it was disclosed that 16,486 women were married, but only 16,244 males.

Walker was unable to explain the "missing" 242 men.

This category also comprised the largest segment of the population—48.9 per cent.

Proof that women outlive men is the fact the report notes ther are 2,194 widows, but only 433 males have outlived their spouses. The divorce ratio is somewhat closer (895 men, 1,555 women) and is only 3.7 per cent of the total population.

Leading the list of occupations in Daly City is the professional or technician field with 2,774. This is followed by managers and officials at 2,600 persons. In order are craftsmen, foremen, clerical, service workers, sales, laborers.

Most residents of Daly City work in downtown San Francisco (11,937). The second highest number work in San Mateo County (3,698). Of this number only 1,834 work and live in Daly City.

There are 4,502 persons whose work area is unknown, the survey indicates.

The farthest anyone in Daly City travels to work is 56 miles south—to the city of Santa Clara. There are 139 of these hardy souls living in the county's northern most city.

Another startling revelation uncovered in the report is the breakdown by sex of the city's population: There are 31,829 males, 33,240 females, and 144 persons listed in the "sex unknown" column.

The special census was actually conducted in November of 1967, with projections made up to and including 1972. The census facts and figures are available at City Hall for $2, Walker said.

Brunan Held For Narco

A 29-year-old San Bruno man was booked for possession of marijuana and possession of narcotics paraphernalia by San Bruno police last weekend.

Police said they responded to a call of an overdose at 181 Santa Dominga Avenue and found Thomas M. Vasilove, Jr., of that address, lying face down on the sidewalk.

Old City Hall Okayed as Clinic

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Daly City's abandoned city hall on Wellington Avenue has been singled out for yet another role in its half-century long history.

The two-story brick structure, vacant since the San Mateo County Municipal Court moved out last year, had been earmarked for other city government offices and a public library.

But the unanimous feelings of the city council expressed Monday was that the Guadalupe Health Center needs it more than the city. The decision followed months of talks between clinic directors and the city.

Only two weeks ago the city said they wanted the fair market value for the structure — $1,000 monthly — and were hopeful the county would pick up their share of the rental.

Mayor Bernard Lycett maintained the people of his city pay taxes for health services and the county is not doing its share to lighten this burden. He had offered the building to the county at $750 rent per month and had held out hope the supervisors would lower this figure to $500 monthly for the clinic — a price they could afford to pay.

The county turned the offer down.

Monday an overflow crowd, mostly proponents of moving the small clinic from its present Mission Street location in a four-room office building to the Old City Hall applauded the council's decision.

It was a badly kept secret that Mayor Lycett had been working behind the scenes during the past week with City Manager David Rowe to iron out legal wrinkles and lower the rent.

Earlier in the meeting, Gloria Rodriguez, director of the clinic, made a plea to the council for rental of the building "at a price we can afford to pay."

She said "the only element we need to support us is the City Council of Daly City," after pointing out that the federal government, state and local citizens' groups were behind them.

Councilman Tony Giamonna moved that the city hall be rented for $500 monthly for a two-year period with the stipulation that if more monies were available from the government at a later date, both agencies could again negotiate the rent.

In turn, each of the councilmen spoke of the work the clinic was doing in helping the people of the city.

Mayor Lycett and Councilmen Louis J. Papan, Paul Huof and Giamonna praised the dedicated group.

Lycett said he felt the county should pitch in and help the clinic, "but we're (the city) not going to stand in your way.

"I didn't think this clinic would make it," Lycett commented, "but you did and I want to wish you good luck."

Councilman McRobert Stewart's comments on the matter were less than enthusiastic. He took exception to a pamphlet handed out before the council session which took a critical view of the council's earlier stand on the issue.

After noting how difficult it was for him to sit on the council bench and make decisions that might prove detrimental to all the citizens of Daly City, he warned he would "be on your backs every bit of the way."

Mrs. Rodriguez said she would welcome Councilman Stewart's close scrutiny of the operation "so he might see exactly what kind of work we are doing for the people of this city."

The clinic was established in July, 1971, to provide health care services for low income and minority residents of North San Mateo County. It was set up in a four-room facility over a real estate office on Mission Street.

The patient load grew from some 89 families the first month to more than 1200 families today. Several government grants, totaling some $368,000 were recently received by the clinic to carry on its work.

The clinic has committed some $6000 to remodeling the interior of the old City Hall, in addition to the $500 monthly rental.

JESD Pair Bewildered Over Funds

Two women members of the Jefferson Elementary School District Board — Dorothy Adams and Beverly Forrester — declared that they are bewildered over an announcement of a dramatic reduction in the district tax rate.

It was made public August 22 that the JESD had "found" certain revenues and would be able to not only wipe out an anticipated 13.5-cent tax rate hike, but also reduce the current figure by almost half a cent.

The release was issued by Board Chairman Albert V. Collett Jr. and Board Secretary James Cranna. The pair gave credit for finding the necessary revenues needed to offset any tax rate increase to Supt. Frank L. Greenwood and his associate for business, Roger Barthuli.

Both Forrester and Adams said they were more than "just a little surprised" to learn from a newspaper article in The Times that the district had successfully avoided a 13.5-cent tax rate hike.

This same increase was presented to the board along with the $10 million budget prepared by Barthuli at the board's last regular meeting.

Because the 13.5-cent tax increase would have been the highest increase among districts in San Mateo County this year, the women board members voted against the budget.

"Our determination to hold the tax rate led us to vote against the 1972-73 budget. We have consistently maintained the position that the bond building fund monies remain invested until such time as the construction of a new school begins," Adams said.

THE POST

Vol. 26, No. 36 — DELIVERED EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING — Wednesday, August 30, 1972

Daly City Project Said 'Too Little, Too Late'

The ambitious Knowles Avenue widening project, which cost more than a quarter of a million dollars and resulted in the removal of some 55 Daly City homes and businesses, may be a case of "too little, too late."

That was the pessimistic prediction made yesterday by George Smith, head of a fact-finding committee for the Mission Street Merchants' Association.

Smith, owner of the Mission Bell Motel, said two separate traffic studies involving Knowles Avenue in conjunction with the new Bay Area Rapid Transit station, indicated some 68,000 cars would use the road between BART and Mission Street.

Both Smith and Association President Vince Merlo ventured the intersection of Knowles and Mission Street "will be one big mess" if the impact studies are correct.

The membership had poured into a small rear room of Val's Restaurant on Junipero Serra Boulevard to hear results of a questionnaire concerning redevelopment in the city sent to 373 merchants.

Eighteen per cent responded to the 22 questions which dealt with everything from traffic patterns to parking—the latter still of prime concern to most "top of the hill" merchants.

Smith said he had been disappointed in what he considered to be a rather poor 18 per cent response, "but I was informed by City Hall that anything between 12 and 18 per cent was considered to be great."

The survey is only a first step in what will undoubtedly be a very complex issue, Smith and Merlo emphasized.

"It gave us a few new directions that must be explored further," Merlo said later in commenting on the questionnaire.

One of the most surprising revelations brought out was the overwhelming number of those favoring redevelopment as a vehicle to bring about economic change in the gradually deteriorating area.

Some 70 per cent said they favored redevelopment, while almost 80 per cent felt such rebuilding would provide an economic shot-in-the-arm to them.

Surprisingly, not all businesses along Mission Street are going broke.

The "older" businesses have felt the pinch in recent years as new shopping centers opened in the city, but the newer enterprises — banks, car dealerships and such — have actually done a booming business, Merlo and Smith said in analyzing the report.

Also significant was the number of persons responding — 70 per cent — who feel BART should be extended at least to International Airport as a means to bring more business into Daly City.

Councilman McRobert Stewart praised the businessmen for their unselfish attitude in explaining the Daly City-Airport BART extension should primarily be made for the convenience of the public.

Street pattern improvements to smooth out traffic flow in the entire area must be made 81 per cent of those answering the survey said.

"If 'yes' which of the following do you feel will aid in solving the traffic circulation problem?" merchants were asked.

Their reply was an emphatic "More off-street parking."

Other solutions offered was a shuttle bus system between BART and points along the street and the widening of arterial streets behind business areas.

What caused the slowdown in the ring of cash registers along the street, according to 14 of 87 merchants answering this question, is the lack of parking.

Throughout the survey the "lack of parking" was hit. Another area that was blamed for the present state of affairs along the once-prosperous street was the opening of shopping centers.

Smith, in responding to questions from the membership, said he had contacted several nationwide firms, including Goodyear Tire and Rubber and Goodrich, to locate in Daly City.

"They were interested until we told them about the parking," Smith said.

Two-Cent Tax Rate Increase

By BOB HEMINGWAY

A 1972-73 San Mateo County tax rate of $2.0937 per $100 of assessed valuation, up 2.4 cents over last year, was set Tuesday by the County Board of Supervisors.

County Manager M. D. Tarshes said the new rate, which will finance a county budget of $130,135,870, still is the lowest among Bay Area counties and is the second lowest among the 35 largest California counties.

This year's increase follows last year's rate reduction of six cents.

Two items which have caused a revenue reduction of almost $1 million can alone account for much more than the small tax rate increase, Tarshes notes in a report to the board.

The veto by Governor Ronald Reagan of the budget bill item that would have reduced the Medi-Cal obligations of the counties results in a $594,000 property tax levy for San Mateo County, Tarshes reports.

And the court decision that has delayed the East Palo Alto-Belle Haven Drainage Assessment District causes a further tax levy increase of $321,000 because of the deferred reimbursement of an advance from te county general fund for the project, the manager states.

Tarshes said the two items are equivalent to about five cents on the county-wide tax rate. If it were not for them, "we would have been able to show a three-cent tax rate reduction despite inflationary cost (Please See Page 2, Column 5) eventual increase in pay will only be effective from the date the agreement is signed. It generally is common practice to pay retroactively in public agency wage negotiations.

"This is nothing more than an attempt by Minford to force the unions into acceding to his meager proposal, under threat of postponing the increase if we continue to negotiate," said the union paper.

It was pointed out that the unions have expressed willingness to consider a two-year pact if it provides adequate gains for both years.

Asked what he specifically thought would be appropriate, Gillis said, "A just settlement that's in line with what's going on in other public agencies.

The union's version of Minford's proposal was that he offered a 3.5 per cent salary increase for the general employes, plus a 2½ per cent inequity adjustment for one mechanic and one mechanic's helper, and a 3.2 per cent increase for firemen. That was for the first year.

The union then pointed out that the latest U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics figures show the cost of living has increased 3.7 per cent over the last year.

The union also challenged the city's fringe benefit proposal, whereby the city pays the premiums for whatever insurance benefits it provides to the employes. The city has suggested this be substituted by a flat dollar contribution that will remain the same over the next two years.

"With the 22 per cent premium increase in Blue Cross this year, and the distinct probability that insurance rates will increase next year, this proposal will most likely result in a net loss of fringe benefit purchasing power over a two-year period," said the union paper.

Minford's proposal for the second year, according to the union, "includes only a cost of living salary increase and no increase in fringe benefit contribution.

Gillis became particularly disturbed when the council Monday night routinely adopted a resolution approving salary schedules for certain employes effective August 16.

"What employes?" asked Gillis.

"The people you represent are included," responded Mayor Corey.

"We don't know what's in there (the adopted resolution)," said Gillis. "But it's our people's livelihood you're dealing with."

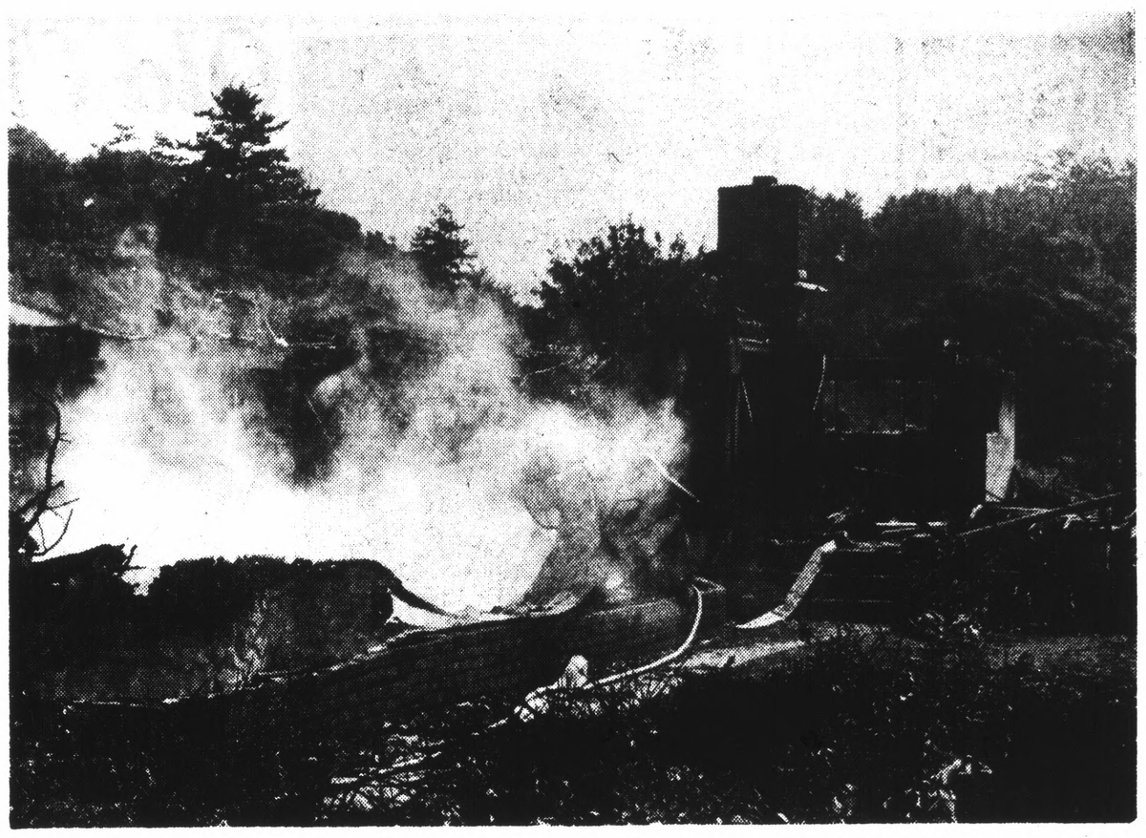

Shortly after that, Gillis, members of the various employes unions and their wives, tramped out of the council chambers and went to the city hall basement to discuss the strike possibility.

County Rate Up Two Cents

increases and some difficult financing problems," the manager states in his report.

Tarshes also reiterates in the report the difficulties facing the county in financing medical care programs.

The net county cost of all medical care programs in the county is anticipated to increase by $3,924,680 this year, all because of state mandated changes in medical care financing, he states.

This hike in medical care costs would have caused a substantial tax rate increase if it were not for the 6.8 per cent rise in assessed valuation "and our ability to hold the line in other county costs," the manager says.

The county's unincorporated area and those cities contracting for county library services will have an increase of 1.67 cents in the library rate, with the 1972-73 rate to be just over 21 cents.

The structural fire protection rate established in 1971-72 is increasing by nearly 11.5 cents, making the rate 16.11 cents.

This tax is a result of legislation which permits cities and fire protection districts to exempt themselves from contributing to any county expenditures for structural fire protection in unincorporated areas.

The main reason for the big increase this year is a first installment payment totalling $35,000 to refund the cities of Millbrae and San Bruno to compensate for the fact that they neglected to secure exemption from the 1971-72 structural fire protection rate. State law permits such refunds.

Aside from the refund, the increase in the fire rate is mainly caused by the substantial reduction in assessed valuation resulting from exemptions of all of the cities and districts.

Tarshes says the board deserves a great deal of credit for consistently maintaining budgetary policies that result in the economical operation of the county government.

The new San Mateo County rate compares quite favorably with four other area counties — Santa Clara, $2.63; Marin, $2.65; Contra Costa, $2.83; and Alameda, $2.98.

Laguna Wins On Transfers

Pacifica's Laguna Salada School District has won its battle over who pays what in inter-district transfers.

Superintendent Jim Brien reported to trustees that Governor Ronald Reagan signed AB 655 into law, which had been pushed by the district.

Therefore, when Laguna Salada students are authorized interdistrict transfers to South San Francisco's Unified School District, for example, the Laguna Salada district has to pay the South San Francisco district the amount of money it would normally cost to educate the individual in Pacifica (a low-wealth district), instead of the previously paid higher South San Francisco cost (dollars-per-student) of education.

an 1, with a top of $910; library assistant, top of $744; maintenance man 1, top of $774; maintenance man II, top of $849; and maintenance man III, top of $889, all monthly salaries.

Two positions reflected a 6 per cent salary increase; assistant equipment mechanic with a top of $911 a month and equipment mechanic with a top of $993 a month.

"A big issue was raised that the city was forcing by coercion a two-year agreement on employes," said the city's release. "Council action (Monday) does not force a two-year agreement. The employes represented may negotiate again next year."

The city release did say, however, that it intends to stand firm on refusing retroactivity. "To string negotiations along when no progress was being made seems unfair," said the release.

It was asserted that the city "worked very hard to negotiate in good faith," and that the union's initial request amounted to "almost 30 per cent in cash costs alone."

According to the city, only late in negotiations, "and at our insistance, were we able to obtain even an oral statement of the union's possible settlement position."

The press release outlined its separate two-year proposals to the firemen and public works employes, which includes the library staff.

According to the city, the proposal to the firemen would mean a 5.9 per cent increase in city costs for salaries and fringe benefits.

The first year would be 3.2 per cent salary increase, a reduced work week by one hour (1.75 per cent cost), an increase in city contribution to insurance coverage (9 per cent cost), representing an increase from $8.75 to $13.92 a month, depending on type of coverage.

In addition any employe who substitutes for a supervisor for more than 30 consecutive calendar days would receive not less than 5 per cent increase in pay for that period.

The city also intended to simplify the procedure for payment of clothing allowance, and offered to exchange the required living radius to 3.2 miles, or any location that permits a 15-minute response time in an emergency.

For the second year, the city promised that if on February 1, 1973, the average salary paid for any position based on a five-city average — Millbrae, Burlingame, Daly City, South San Francisco and Pacifica — is more than $15 over that paid by San Bruno, the city would adjust to the average effective July 1, 1973.

Also, on July 1, 1973, salaries would be increased by an amount equal to the cost of living index from March of 1972 through March of 1973.

The release also pointed out that firemen since 1968 have received a 31 per cent salary increase, not including costs for continuous increases by the city in contributions to insurance, sick leave, additional holiday pay and increased clothing allowance, plus up to 5 per cent increase in salary as educational incentive pay.

The first year proposal for public works employes was a 3.5 per cent salary increase, the same insurance coverage promised firemen, compensation for overtime at either time-and-a-half or compensatory time at time-and-a-half, the same supervisor substitute policy offered firemen and a 6 per cent salary increase for two mechanic positions.

The second year proposal was the same as the firemen's.

"We strongly feel the city has fully met its responsibility to employes by granting substantial increases in salaries and fringe benefits," said the release.

"This city has negotiated in good faith and will continue to do so. What we have offered this year will keep us comparable to other cities, and is in line with increases granted by other cities in the county, and the intent of the (federal) wage and price stabilization program."

Stone Cutting Enters World of Computer

By FRANK LAPIERRE

Stone cutting, that traditional craft handed down from father to son has now entered the world of computors.

Many of the Old World artists that suffered days on end over their work would probably spin in their graves if they could return for a look at how the business has changed today.

But in most cases the change is for the better, economically and artistically.

For the push button console that operates a high-powered diamond cutter at V. Fontana & Sons Monument company in Colma is able to keep the cost of real stone monuments within the reach of everyone's pocketbook.

Much of the work is still, by necessity, accomplished by hand and sweat, but the "bulk" work — cutting the stone to size, polishing, and slicing —is now done by machine.

What once required several days of chipping with a hammer and chisel, now consumes less than a day, often a matter of hours. And the end result is often a far better product, precise in every respect.

The age of computors has reached into almost every industry. How does this affect craftsmen such as Elio Fontana?

"It had to come sooner or later. The cost of such machinery is naturally high, but it enables us to produce a fine product at a cost people can afford."

The specially-made diamond cutter at the Fontana company is the only one of its kind of the West Coast, and "perhaps anywhere in the United States," Fontana explained.

It was custom made for the company after Fontana saw a similar unit at a stone cutters' convention several months ago.

"But the one I saw was huge — it was used by wholesale companies," he said.

He told the manufacturer a smaller unit built along the same lines would be ideal for his work.

Months later the unit was delivered to the Colma site and installed.

The workmen are still learning, along with Fontana, just what the computorized machine can do.

"So far its saved us an awful lot of work and has done a fantastic job on turning out a greater workload," Fontana said.

Man Hurt in Pacifica Fall

A 22-year-old San Francisco man, injured in a fall Thursday afternoon from a Rockaway Beach cliffside in Pacifica, has been transferred to San Francisco General Hospital for treatment.

Firemen rescued James Carlson at about 5 p.m. He first was taken to Mary's Help Hospital, Daly City, with complaint of pain in the chest area and the small of the back, and cuts and bruises, a spokesman said.

D.C. Youth Arrested After Coast Crash

An 18-year-old Daly City youth lost control of the stolen car he was driving as he entered Cabrillo Freeway in Pacifica early Wednesday. The auto rolled over five times down a 100-foot embankment, and the driver was thrown from the car, but he and a 16-year-old hitchhiker he had picked up escaped serious injury, according to the California Highway Patrol.

California Highway Patrol Officer Curtis Sveum reported that Ernest L. Hill, an unemployed cook of 272 Dennis Drive, Daly City, stole the car in Sonoma to drive to the Bay Area and sell a $200 guitar to raise enough money to enter Columbia Junior College.

After picking up the hitchhiker, Sveum said, Curtis apparently took the wrong turnoff from the highway in the Edgemar Beach area and was turning back onto the highway at the Palmetta Drive entrance when his car struck a highway marker, and he lost control.

The officer said the car rolled 185 feet, finally coming to rest on some iceplant against a fence 100-feet below the roadway.

From the debris, Sveum said, it appeared the 1972-model car rolled over about five times. Although Hill, who reportedly had been drinking, was thrown from the car part way down, the hitch-hiker, also from Daly City, was found in the wreckage.

The younger youth escaped injury and was turned over to his father. Hill was taken to Mary's Help Hospital for emergency treatment and was then booked at county jail in Redwood City on a car theft charge. He was reported to have several sutures taken in the stomach area, and lost several teeth.

S. M. County Can't Close Ratio Gap

San Mateo County still is below the required 25 per cent in levying local property assessments in relation to market value, the State Board of Equalization reports.

However, County Assessor Jack Estes is "moving as rapidly as he can to close the gap," according to Assistant Assessor Robert M. Huston.

Final county assessment ratios released this week by the Board of Equalization show that the San Mateo County ratio is 23.9 per cent of market value, ranking in the top one-third of the state's counties.

The high is reported for Los Angeles County, with 25.6 per cent, and the low is rgistered by Trinity County with 20.2 per cent.

State law requires county assessors to assess at 25 per cent of value. All do, the state reports, but property values change so rapidly that it is hard to keep up.

This is particularly true in San Mateo County, Huston states.

"It seems like we're always a year behind," he says.

However, with a computerized system being utilized, the area-by-area valuation should be completed by next year at this time, he reports.

Some counties, such as Los Angeles, make across-the-board assessment hikes, Huston says. However, Estes has a policy that his office must value and consider the individual property merits, a slower, but fairer process, he adds.

Nab Pacifica Man in Fight

A 20-year-old Pacifica resident has been arrested for assault with a deadly weapon against a 19-year-old Pacifican after the two apparently had an earlier altercation.

Police booked David Shack of 175 Lakeside Avenue, Apt. F yesterday. David Martinez, of of 160 Clardendon Road Apt. D, was treated for lacerations at Kaiser Hospital, South San Franfrancisco, poilce said.

Meets Slated On New Air Safety Plan

Briefings on the Federal Aviation Administration's new "Terminal Control Area" for San Francisco International Airport, are being scheduled during September by spokesman for the FAA.

In an attempt to make the briefing sessions available to all possible pilots, two series of meetings will be held. Thirteen briefings will be held in the Bay Area, at 11 different airport locations from Napa to San Jose. Another 10 sessions will be held at locations from Crescent City to Fresno.

"Terminal Control Area" is the federal government's new system for controlling aerial access to and around major airports, the FAA explains.

Replacing an older system in which pilots are required to contact an airport control tower before moving closer than five miles to any airfield, while at less than 2000 feet altitude, the Terminal Control Area concept establishes a more involved series of distances and altitudes. The goal is to increase separation between large jet airliners and small planes, and reduce the possibility of mid air collisions.

Briefings will be held in San Mateo County September 5 and 6 at the Airport Hilton, and September 29 at Skyway Aviation, San Carlos Airport.

Nab SSF Man On 3 Counts

A 29-year-old South San Francisco man has been arrested on charges of embezzling $356, possession of deadly weapons and possession of an unlawful weapon.

Booked was Ralph Tadday, of 636 El Camino Real, an employe of Value Giant at 33 Arroyo Drive, South San Francisco.

According to police, Tadday is charged with writing purchase orders for guns he sold while a salesman at the store and pocketing the money.

Detectives investigating the alleged crime said they found billy clubs, blackjacks, sap gloves and an iron claw at Tadday's home and in his car. Also found was a tear gas canister, police said.

Owners Aid Coast School

Pacifica's Laguna Salada School District has received a check for $250 from the Park Pacifica Homeowners Association as its contribution toward the total cost of the Oddstad School landscaping project.

The board on November 11, 1971, approved the expenditure of $1,413 from the Joint Community Use Fund toward the installation of a valve-operated automatic sprinkler system and landscaping for three lawn areas. The expenditure was approved last December by the Pacifica City Council.

According to a report by the district, it now appears the total cost of the project will be well under the $1,413 approved last year.

Total expenditures paid by the district to date have been $981.21 for parts and supplies. Remaining work includes approximately $25 for parts and approximately $35 for seeding of lawn areas. Two of the three lawn areas remain to be seeded.

The Park Pacifica Homeowners Association performed all the labor of installing the automatic sprinkler system, operating under the supervision of city gardeners.

Calls Snare Pacifica Boy

A 17-year-old Pacifica boy was taken into custody Saturday after he reportedly sent several Sheriff's deputies on a wild goose chase to La Honda.

The sheriff's office reported today that the desk officer received several calls Saturday morning from a man with "urgency in his voice." The man said there was a big fight going on in La Honda and that people were being badly hurt.

He reportedly called again and again as five sheriff's units were ultimately dispatched to the La Honda area. No fight could be found.

When the youth called the last time, he was asked where he was calling from. He replied that he couldn't say. He was then asked his phone number. Again, he declined to say but the operator came on and told the deputy the number, which was traced to Pacifica.

Pacifica policemen went to he boy's home and he reportedly admitted making the calls. He said he had broken up with his girl friend and had sent the deputies to her address.

While responding to the La Honda call, Sergeant Bob Ninnis' patrol car crashed into an embankment.

He said he heard a "noise like a pop" in the front end of his patrol car and lost control. The right side of the car was extensively damaged.

The sheriff's office reported that the 17-year-old later called and apologized for diverting the deputies to a remote area.

Mateo Priest Elevated

Father Bernard Cronin, pastor of St. Matthew's Catholic Church in San Mateo, has been elevated to the rank of monsignor and designated a "prelate of honor."

The promotion came in an order from Pope Paul VI, at the Vatican in Rome, according to the Archdiocese of San Francisco.

Nine other priests in the Bay Area were promoted to the rank of monsignor, and designated prelates of honor, and 10 Bay Area monsignors were designated prelates of honor as well.

The move results in all monsignors in the Archdiocese of San Francisco now being of equal rank.

Among those Monsignors designated "prelates of honor" were Monsignor J. Warren Holleran, director of Vallombrosa Retreat Center in Menlo Park, and Monsignor Eugene A. Gallagher, pastor of All Souls Catholic Church in South San Francisco.

No Teachers' Strike Expected In Jefferson School District

By FRANK LaPIERRE

It is doubtful that teachers in the Jefferson Elementary School District will again walk off the job this year as 227 of them did last year over a contract dispute.

This was the contention of Jim Cannon, president of the JESD section of the California Teachers Association, during an interview with The Times Saturday.

Cannon said most teachers have let it be known they are not receptive to the idea of striking the district again after "losing so much on the walkout last year."

He expressed frustration and disappointment over superintendent Frank L. Greenwood's criticism of a fact-finding report before it had been brought before those directly connected with the certificated employees' wage talks in the district.

And Cannon said he was "dismayed" over the sudden lowering of the tax rate before teachers' salary talks had been completed.

He called the "finding" of additional revenues within the district by Greenwood and associate superintendent for business, Roger Barthuli "a political ploy" and accused Greenwood of knowing about this source of added revenues prior to recommending to the Board of Trustees three weeks ago that a 13½ cent tax rate hike be employed to meet the current 1972-73 budget of some $10 million.

Classified employees in the district received a 5.5 per cent pay hike, but teachers have not been notified of any wage or fringe benefit increases, Cannon pointed out.

Last December teachers received a two percent wage hike after they struck the district, were fired by the Board and were rehired on a court directive.

This year they want a 9 percent pay hike and the Board is standing fast against giving that much.

Cannon said this part of the pact is negotiable and he would be satisfied with less. How much less he did not say.

The reason the teachers asked for 9 percent this year, according to Cannon, is to level out the wage increase over the past two years to 5.5 percent.

Other districts in the county have given their teachers substantial hikes. This year the JESD teacher will slide further down the pay scale in the county, Cannon said.

He charged the administration with spending some $100,000 in new administrative costs, namely appointment of new members of the district's hierarchy, plus getting themselves — Greenwood, Barthuli and Vincent Stratton — a 2 percent pay raise coupled with a temporary extra raise designed to make up for monies the trio had to pay back when their self-appointed raise earlier this year was considered illegal by the District Attorney's Office and they were ordered to pay it back.

The tax rate decrease also came in for a scalding from Cannon, not because it cut back dramatically the predicted tax increase, but because it was announced before any settlement was made with the certificated employes of the district, he said.

"They (the Board) had money to buy up their (Greenwood and Barthuli) vacation time for approximately $3,800, plus get themselves a pay raise, but there seems to be nothing left for the teachers," Cannon said.

Two JESD Trustees Bewildered

comes necessary so interest may be used to reduce the district's tax rate," the women said in a joint statement.

The bond building fund money comes from passage of a bond issue in Daly City some five years ago. Bonds were sold at what school administrators said was a favorable rate and the money earmarked for construction of the proposed Savage School on the St. Francis Heights section of the district. This site is now under study.

Meanwhile, the bond money has been invested and is drawing interest.

"When the publication budget was adopted in June, I asked the administration to prepare a summary of alterntives for the board to consider in order to prevent the tax increase," Mrs. Adams said.

Tuesday the school board held a meeting. However, Greenwood failed to tell either Mrs. Adams or Mrs. Forrester of the sharp reduction in the tax rate and the increased revenues, according to the trustees.

Although expressing "delight that homeowners in the district will experience a reduction in their tax bills this year," the women said they could not understand why Collett or Greenwood failed to inform the entire board of trustees.

"The administration has not provided us with sufficient financial data to determine the source and amount of the additional funds. We are uncertain what monies will be available to eliminate combination classes presently planned for first and second grades, to provide some cost of living increase to district employes, or to utilize surplus classrooms to relieve overcrowding in some grades," the women jointly stated.

Pacifica Trustees Blast County

If a new county library is built on the historical Sanchez Adobe site in Pacifica without an adequate feasibility study it will not be because Laguna Salada School District trustees have remained silent.

Trustees again Thursday night took a verbal swipe at county supervisors for apparent unconcern about checking into what repercussions such a project would have for the site itself, and the area where it is located.

"I think it's a disgrace," said Trustee Sid Lorvan, about what he considers obvious problems with entering and exiting the area, and the fact that no indication has yet been made about exactly where the proposed library will be located on the property.

The trustees had received a letter from Pacifica City Manager Jim Swayne on the subject of locating a library in the city's Linda Mar section. The city council already has gone on record favoring the Sanchez Adobe site, over objections of the school board, which has offered several parcels free to the county for construction of a library.

In his letter to the school board, Swayne said he had recently communicated with the county librarian requesting that a land use study of the Sanchez Adobe site be made available to the city.

"She has related to me that specific land use studies have not yet been made and are dependent on a board of supervisors' aciton to retain an architect," said the letter.

"That's what we've been saying all along," said Trustee Dale Buettgenback. "They have not done a land use study, which we've been led to believe has been done."

Buttgenback again reiterated that the only objection the school board has against putting a library at the Adobe Sanchez site is that it is apparently being done without a thorough study of the area, as well as similar thorough studies of the areas the school district has offered for use. The Council also had indicated that its approval automatically included a land use study.

"We as a school district have nothing to gain by putting the library on a school site," said Buettgenback, "except it may save the taxpayers some money."

Buettgenback said he has heard "talk" of a possible lawsuit to block any action that would place the library on the Adobe Sanchez site. Lorvan said he too has heard these rumblings.

Buettgenback also said he had recently spoken with an officer of the County Historical Society, "who is unaware of the whole affair, which I thought was interesting," said Buettgenback. He noted that at a joint council-school board meeting recently Mayor Grace McCarthy said the historical society was aware of the proposal and has not objected to it.

Lorvan noted that the trustees had no official capacity in the matter, but said he was concerned as a citizen and speaking as a citizen.

"Obviously nothing is being done to see what effect putting a library there would do," said Lorvan. "There is no indication where it will be placed, yet the supervisors are ready to hire an architect, and the historical society hasn't been involved. I think it's a disgrace," he said.

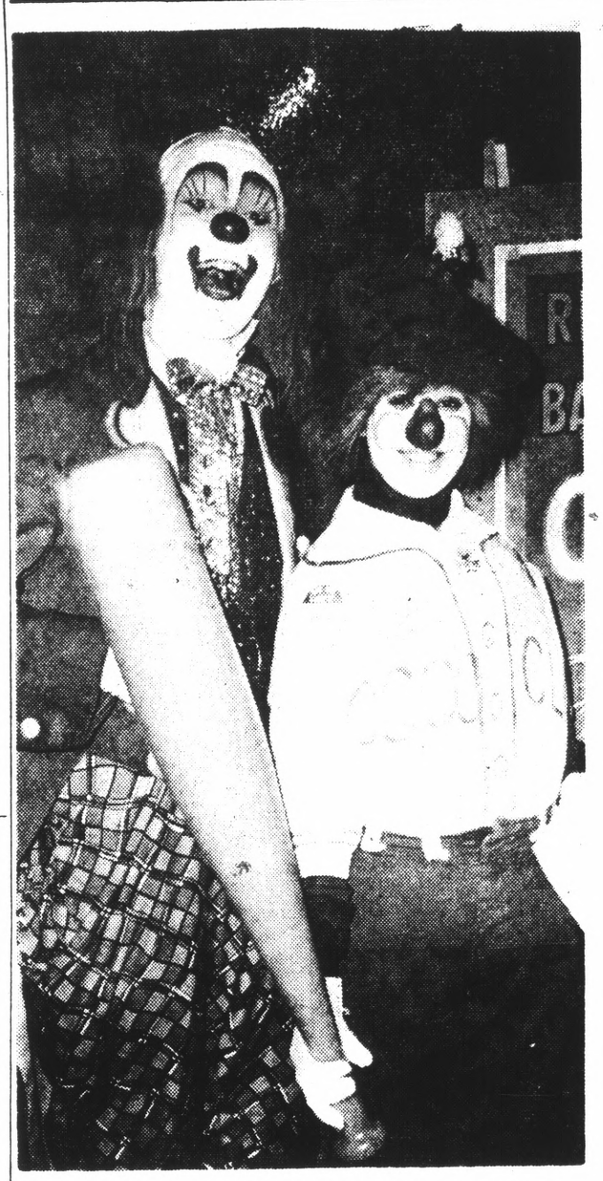

Lorvan also pointed out that the city is presently widening Linda Mar Boulevard at the Adobe Sanchez intersection and as a result there will be no left turn onto Linda Mar Boulevard from the historical site.

He suggested that to make an adequate ingress and egress to the library if it were placed there would probably require the elimination of "majestic" trees.

"The city council and board of supervisors are trustees of that (Sanchez Adobe) building," said Lorvan. "It's of national historical significance, a major remaining example of an earlier era. It's irreplaceable. That site should be analyzed and studied," said Lorvan. "And if necessary we (the schocl board) should write letters not only to the supervisors, but to all newspapers to see that it is."

The trustees did, on a suggestion of Buettgenback, instruct Superintendent Jim Brien to write a letter to Supervisor Chairman Gerald F. Day saying the school district is still waiting to find out what the supervisors are doing as far as the Sanchez Adobe site is concerned.

The letter Swayne sent the trustes noted that the county librarian has requested an appointment with the county manager's office "to make arrangements for finalization of the project preparatory to a recommendation on the appointment of an architect."

Upset in Pacifica Over School Guide

A looseleaf notebook full of new school district policies caused consternation at a recent meeting of Laguna Salada School District meeting in Pacifica.

The notebook is the "Stull Bill Guide," developed and completed during the summer. It contains district goals and objectives, subject area objectives, copies of forms to be used in the evaluation process and job descriptions.

Consternation came when Adelaide Zehr, president of the Crespi School PTA, sought to have copies made available to PTAs. She was told the booklets are too expensive, and that there will be a copy for every staff member in the district and there should be no trouble reviewing one if desired.

Mrs. Zehr noted that the problem with things being "available" is that it's "only used if you know where to look or ask for it."

She said people are interested and ought to know what the goals and objectives are. Superintendent Jim Brien said that if they are interested they could come to a school and look at a copy.

"Interest and desirability may be correlated with easy availability," responded Mrs. Zehr, who conferred with Assistant Superintendent of Instruction Marvin Morganti on the matter after the meeting.

The board approved the implementation of the Stull Bill Guide for use in tentative form during the 1972-73 year.

Brien stressed that it was a tentative guide, which will be reviewed and revised during the coming school year. He said it also is incomplete in some areas.

By law every school district in the state must have procedures for implementing the Stull Bill.

Laguna Salada Pact With SFS

Pacifica's Laguna Salada School District trustees Thursday night approved a master teacher agreement with San Francisco State for the 1972-73 year.

The agreement provides that the district will train student teachers and be reimbursed at the rate of $5 per semester unit, not to exceed total payment of $600.

Center Closes

JOSEPH W. BOSTIC is the San Mateo County co-chairman for the Nixon Reelection campaign. Bostic will serve as county Nixon co-chairman with Russell Collier.

Spadarella Heads Nixon North Drive

Frank L. Spadarella has been named North County chairman for the Nixon reelection campaign. The appointment was made by Russell Collier, the President's county campaign chairman.

Spadarella has been active in GOP local politics for many years and is a member of the San Mateo County Republican Central Committee, Republican Alliance and an alternate member of the State Republican Central Committee.

In 1970 he was the Republican candidate for the 27th Assembly District.

The North County GOP chairman has been a resident of Daly City for 12 years and has two sons, Anthony and Robert.

In addition to his political activities he is president of Toto's Restaurants, Inc., in San Francisco and Daly City. He has been in business in this area since 1949. His business affiliations include membership in the San Francisco Golden Gate Restaurant Association, of which he is a director, and the San Mateo County Hotel and Restaurant Association. Spadarella has been a member of the Olympic Country Club at Lakeside since 1965. He is currently serving as first vice president of Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce and is a past president of the San Francisco Council of Lions Clubs.

He served for two years as chairman of the San Mateo County Human Relations Commission.

In assuming his position as Nixon's North County chairman, Spadarella said that it will be his primary responsibility to organize an effective precinct operation in his area.

Millbrae PD Arrests Trio

Three people are arrested in Millbrae on Sunday on charges of burglary after a home alarm system alerted police.

Officers rushed to the home of Kathleen S. McCall on Helen Drive, just after 10 p.m. As they drove up, a car containing a man and a woman moved away.

A door of the house had been forced open, police say, and Steve Mike Moreno, 32, of Los Angeles, was found inside.

Robert Marks, 23, of El Monte, and Linda Susie Adams, 25, also of El Monte, were arrested when the car they were in was stopped by San Bruno police acting in response to a Millbrae radio alarm broadcast.

All three were booked on cahrges of burglary at San Mateo County Jail.

Pacifica Gun Case Review

A report on a shooting incident in Pacifica early Sunday morning is being filed with the district attorney's office by the Pacifica Police Department.

According to police reports, Patricia Conley, 27, was questioned by police, but not held, in connection with a shooting incident in which her husband, Garry, 27, received a wound in the upper left leg.

Police said they responded to a report of a shooting at 612 Lockhaven Drive, the Conley's home, at about 1 a.m. Conley was treated for the wound at Mary's Help Hospital, Daly City, and released, police said.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN KAEHMS
(Janet Giovannini)

Prager-Richards

Christ Episcopal Church in Sausalito was the setting for the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. James Richards (Denise Prager) who are making their first home in Guadalajara while the bridegroom attends medical school in that city.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Prager of San Bruno. She was graduated from Oceana High School and the University of California at Santa Barbara where she majored in psychology.

James is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Richards of Long Beach. He is an alumnus of Hawthorne High School and the University of California at Berkeley.

When Denise said her promises, she was dressed in a floor length ivory satin gown with a lace bodice and a train which flowed from the waist. Her sister, Valerie Prager, the sole attendant, was dressed in a floor length floral Empire gown of pink, yellow and green silk.

Fred Richards of Long Beach was his brother's best man.

After the wedding, the newlyweds were felicitated at Campbell Hall in Sausalito.

Giovannini-Kaehms

Janet Ellen Giovannini, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis P. Giovannini of Millbrae, recently became the bride of John Charles Kaehms, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Kaehms of Oakland.

St. Dunstans Catholic Church in Millbrae was the setting for the rites which were followed by a reception at the Machinists Hall in Burlingame.

A long white Empire gown with an attached train was worn by the bride when she said her vows. Her attendants were all dressed in soft pink gowns with dark pink ribbon at the waist.

Maid of honor for her sister was Diane Louise Giovannini of Millbrae. Nancy Caroline Kaehms of Oakland, the bridegroom's sister, shared secondary attendants' duties with Sharon Jane Rives of Millbrae and Mrs. Val Cantu of Daly City.

Best man duties were performed by Thomas Nappo of Oakland and Robert Allen Kaehms of Oakland, John's brother, seated guests with Dwight Ontiveros of Hayward and Steve Wilson, also of Oakland.

The newlyweds both studied at California State University at Hayward where he earned his bachelors degree in geography and served as vice president of the CSCH Geographical Society. Jan is an alumna of Mills High School and the College of San Mateo and John is an alumnus of Fremont High School in Oakland and Merritt Junior College. He and his bride will make their first home in Hayward.

The newlyweds were felicitated after the service in the Patio Room of the Fleet Admiral Nimitz Club on Treasure Island. They honeymooned at Lake Tahoe.

Annette is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Robert McCune of Belmont. When she walked to the altar with her father, she was dressed in a white miramist dress with an Empire waist and white satin underskirt.

Barbara Vau Dell of Redwood City, the maid of honor, set the style of dress for the bridal party in an apricot Empire dress sashed with yellow and green ribbon.

Secondary attendants were Nina Abelseth and Mrs. Joerg Koschyk, both of Belmont.

William Paul Lind of San Mateo was the best man for the bridegroom, who is the son of Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. Earnest W. Daniels of San Bruno. Ushers were Ken Peartree of Sunnyvale and Joerg Koschyk of Belmont.

13 'Counselors in Training' Assisted at Girl Scout Camp

Family Forum

Thirteen "counselors in training" most of them in their first year of apprenticeship, are being instructed at this year's Daly City Girl Scout Day Camp, according to Mrs. Carol Kratt, camp director.

Supervised by Program Director Mrs. Isabel Hidzick, and most graduates from last year's Cadette unit lead this year as last by Mrs. Norma Young, the girls move from one unit to another every day of the eight-day encampment.

They assist unit and central staff and some new graduates of the local "farm system," Senior Scouts serving as adult counselors. Two units in camp are blessed with these "veterans" who at ages 16-17 usually have about ten year's Scouting experience.

The Brownie unit known as the Easterners, on a camp theme of "America the Beautiful" is lead by Ms. Sue Scaduto and Ms. Joan Hidzick, members of Senior Girl Scout Troop No. 24.

The Junior unit exploring the Pilgrim theme is lead by Ms. Nancy Luders, Jane Hitzick and Helen Edelheit, also Senior member of Troop No. 24.

Other camp units are lead by (Southern Creoles) Mmes. Denise Schwarzbach, Wilma Van Aken and Mary Hart; (Mid-Western Pioneers) Mmes. Ginny McGowan, Norene Thurman and gulie Wilson, and (South Western Ranchers) Mmes. Carole Ann Scott, Virginia Rusting, and Shirley Figone.

The Western 49'ers, the youngest Cadette unit is lead again by Mrs. Young with Mmes. Joan Deny's and Nancy Dahlberg.

The Pixie or child-care unit is a Salute to Disneyland and is lead by Mmes. Roz Morino and Mary Tschirgi. Mrs.

"Friendship — Mercy — Courage." So reads the masthead of the Friends Outside Women's Club News their families. In 1972 people are beginning to realize that the old feeling of indifference created generation after generation of socially disoriented people and nurcerned themselves with the problems of prisoners and tured the type of disaffection that leads to criminal and that just about sums up the total requirements for membership in this bludgeoning young organization.

With less than ten years of growth behind it, the concept has grown with leaps and bounds, mainly its leaders feel, because there is such a glaring need for the type of program adhered to by the directors and due to the immergence of a new awareness on the part of society as a whole. Ten years ago few people conconduct.

TO BREAK THE pattern of poverty and criminal involvement Friends Outside declared that it would make a concerted effort to prove to men and women in jails and prisons that there is community concern for them and their families. Perhaps far easier said than done but, the organization has spent eight years learning to work with, rather than for, entire families. Today prisoners' wives and husbands become Friends Outside and become involved in the process of giving aid and encouragment to others as they work with concerned community people on boards and as volunteers.

Volunteer Enlistments are accepted from anyone who feels concerned with the social problems of prisoners and their families and who feels capable of accepting the philosophical statement of Friends Outside. According to Mrs. Louise Enberg all types of volunteers are needed for the local chapter is engaged in a wide variety of activities.

Among the types of services the group undertakes to render are visits to prisoners who are worried about their families. If the prisoner asks a volunteer to visit his family the volunteer will do so to help relieve the frustration of being cut off from loved ones and their problems. Spouses sometimes cannot visit prisoners because they lack money for tranportation and housing so Friends Outside will make arrangements for emergency transportation to jails and for overnight housing if the family will contact a Friends Outside office in advance.

AROUND THE HOLIDAYS inmates who wish to surprise their families with a Christmas box of gifts and groceries may be helped by Friends Outside which collects such things and packs the packages for delivery. Men and women on parole or work furlough are often referred to Friends Outside where they will be provided clothing before they set out to seek employment. The clothes closet and the food pantry are kept flled with necessities and volunteers work with all social and service agencies to provide whatever help is needed at the time the need is discovered.

Members of Friends Outside have organized a club for wives in each of the chapters and each of these clubs meets once each week in a church facility. While the mothers are meeting volunteers conduct a nursery for the care of preschool children.

Volunteers are always needed to do tutoring of school-age children and to help provide activites, by age groups, once each month during the school year and once a week during the summer months.

Each chapter needs people to help with the arrangements necessary to provide one week of summer camp free to any child over nine years of age while one of the parents is in prison. Volunteers work to organize and provide transportaton for family outings and to collect special equipment and clothing so that sons and daughters of prisoners can participate in school activities.

September means the openng of school and Friends Outside chapters are now gathering clothes of various sizes so that everyone of the children in the Friends Outside program can have a new outfit to wear to school that all important first day.

MANY JOBS require many willing hands to assure proper fulfillment of the commitments Friends Outside makes to those who come to its offices seeking help and friendship. If you feel you could drive, assist with the pantry or the clothes closet or tutor a child; if you could come to Mothers Club meetings or help in the nursery, do counseling, or mail out newsletters there is a place for you in Friends Outside. If you lack time, but not concern, you can volunteer to donate $1 per month and join the ranks of those dollar-a-month sponsors who help keep the organization solvent.

For more information, call Mrs. Enberg (761-3595 or 589-4065.) The Friends Outside office is located in the Lakeside Presbyterian Church, Nineteenth Avenue at Eucalyptus drive in San Francisco (phone 661-6900).

St. John's United Church of Christ in San Bruno was the setting for the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. John Splivalo (Storme Jeannette Wilson). The newlyweds honeymooned at Twain Harte and Mi-Wuk and will make their first home in Merced. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harrison of Mi-Wuk and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ozzie Splivalo of San Mateo. (Coleman Photo)

It can't happen to you

Not the flat tire. That can happen to anybody. Even to VW owners.

The solution to the problem is the aim of our "Grease & Glamour" Clinic. It's free and there will be refreshments. It's designed to give the fair sex just a smattering of mechanical instruction to get them out of flat tire trouble, and other little bothers that can happen to any sex and any car.

Our factory trained instructors will tell you what to check if the engine won't start. And what to do when that "little red light over there" starts blinking. Just simple tips on making the lady feel a bit more secure when she's driving alone.

We're not limiting our instruction to VW owners only. (It takes about 2 hours.) Other imports and even big cars from Detroit are welcome.

There's one hitch. Please call and tell us you're coming so we can plan ahead. And wear informal clothing.

You may get some grease mixed up with your glamour.

Lining White Man's Pockets

There is no doubt that black exploitation films have pumped hope and greenbacks into hurting movie house coffers. But that money is still lining white man's pockets while providing employment for many black actors who have only previously found work in the legitimate theater.

And while most of the films have been black copies of white stories, most serious minded black filmmakers hope exploitation films will pave the way for a broadening of subjects that will offer a better image and treatment of black history and talent.

Meanwhile, black audiences to such charades in sex, violence and easy living as "Shaft," "Shaft's Big Score," "Come Back, Charleston Blue" and "Blacula" have been receptive in big cities where movie houses were being closed and torn down for lack of attendance.

Two important black figures have emerged on the filmmaking scene to ride the crest of current box office success to make their mark, both with high hopes that once the fad has passed, they will take part in an important movement to engage audiences in the black experience.

Pervis Atkins, an Oakland boy who played professional football for eight years before becoming the first black agent working for a major theatrical agency, that of Ashley Famous, now carries the distinction of being the first black producer with an action suspense drama, "Melinda."

He's already made a name for himself when following his discharge from the Marine Corps and a stint at San Francisco State College, he received a football scholarship to New Mexico State and subsequently was voted to the 1960-61 All-American football team.

Having been drafted by the Los Angeles Rams in 1961, and playing four seasons with them, he was traded to the Washington Redskins. Two years on that team was capped by a contract with the Oakland Raiders.

It was as manager to the musical group Sly and the Family Stone that led him into show business. Among his clients was the daughter of a big studio boss, Jim Aubrey who helped him get his first film project together.

"Melinda" is no better or worse than previous black exploitation films and stars notable black performers like Calvin Lockhart, Rosalind Cash and a San Francisco lovely Vonetta McGee (also the lead in "Blacula").

My feeling is that if you've seen one, you've seen them all since all the plots and action sequences are interchangeable and involve brutal murders, bloody fights, a quasi-James Bond bravado and the predictable nude sex scene. No one rates them as being anything but escapist fantasy and a chance to show blacks as "top dogs" in dealing with "whitey" on the same violent terms with which they have been treated.

Atkins talks like he means well when he says "I don't think we have enough G rated pictures. I'm a humanist and feel the destruction of our country is involved with the breakdown of the family unit. My mother is a strict Christian. Her life is Godly and I want to make films that she can see without shame."

That remains to be seen. His first project was made for under one million dollars and already has its prints costs backs. It opens on the Peninsula Wednesday. The test of his good intentions will be in what he does with the profit.

Had it not been for another black remake of the Bond genre, "Gadfly," we wouldn't have the opportunity of knowing Broadway actor Ron O'Neal whose accomplishments are considerable. He is not only the first black actor but the only actor ever to win four distinguished acting awards: the New York Critics' Award, the Obie, Drama Desk and Clarence Derwent Theatre World Award for his role as the poet in "No Place To Be Somebody." He came in eighth place after Alex McGowan for "Hadrian" and Donald Pleasance in "Man In A Glass Booth" in a year when Julie Harris made 21st place.

"Then I didn't work for seven months," the native of Cleveland told us last week. "I taught acting in Harlem during the time $50 million was allotted to the poverty program but we didn't see a penny of it."

"I've been acting for more than 15 years and would rather make a film about a black dope pusher who is doing well than a black man in bondage. This role was written for me and I'm not interested in maintaining the status quo, that of the black man losing.

"Gadfly" isn't a ripoff, its a honest depiction of what goes on in the streets. The pimps are heroes to people who live in the ghetto because they've made it with money and power. The film is not in the interest of the haves but the have nots."

Producer Sig Shore, a white man who grew up in Harlem, defends the film as "factual."

Nell Norton

I'm sure that most of us have a box or a drawer just filled with recipes, booklets, clippings, pictures, coupons that have long since expired and pencils with the erasers worn to the metal cap. Not to mention, paper clips, rubber bands, birthday candles and holders and a large collection of the metal twister seals. Thumb tacks, safety pins, bobby pins, straight pins, pen light batteries (dead) and plastic corn on the cob holders.

Does that describe your utility, or to be more exact, junk drawer? It's an unflattering, but accurate description of mine.

Digging through these valuables I did come across some true valuables. For example a booklet distributed by the American Dairy Association back in the mid-sixties. Here is a complete menu with recipes for a delicious meal.

Igloo Meat Loaf
Green Bean and Mushroom Casserole
Gelatin Salad, Lemon Dressing
Rolls, Butter
Cinnamon Apple Crisp, Vanilla Ice Cream
Milk

Space limits the amount of recipes, so I'll give the Igloo Meat Loaf, Green Bean and Mushroom Casserole and Cinnamon Apple Crisp.

The booklet included pictures and I wish my column did too. The Igloo Meat Loaf does look just like an igloo. When the mashed potato frosting is spread over the cooked meatloaf, you use a knife to made indentations to form the ice blocks.

IGLOO MEAT LOAF

2 pounds ground beef
½ cup dry bread crumbs
6 Tablespoons instant minced onion
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1½ cups evaporated milk

In a bowl lightly mix the two pounds ground beef, one-half cup dry bread crumbs, 6 tablespoons instant minced onion (it's important to use the instant minced onion as it makes a finer meatloaf, not so likely to tear when you slice it), two teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper and one and one-half cups evaporated milk. Mix just until blended. Pack firmly into a 1½-quart bowl; turn out of bowl onto pan.

Bake in 325-degree preheated oven for one hour 15 minutes to one hour 30 minutes.

POTATO FROSTING

1½ cups water
2-thirds cup evaporated milk
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter
1 package (3½-oz.) instant mashed potatoes
Cheddar cheese slices

In a 1½-quart saucepan combine one and one-half cups water, two-thirds cup evaporated milk, half teaspoon salt and one tablespoon butter; bring just to boiling. Remove from heat; with whip or fork stir in potatoes, whip briskly. Frost loaf with potato mixture. Bake an additional 15 minutes. Place Cheddar cheese slices on top of Igloo; return to oven just until cheese starts to melt. Six to 8 servings.

I found this frosted meat loaf reheated nicely. Cover with foil and heat in 350-degree oven until heated through.

GREEN BEAN AND MUSHROOM CASSEROLE

2 packages frozen green beans thawed
1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup

In 1¼-quart casserole combine the two packages thawed beans with the one can cream of mushroom soup. Cover. Bake, stirring occasionally for one hour in 325-degree oven. Or until beans are tender.

I'M SURE most of us have a recipe for an Apple Crisp, this recipe has an added bonus, it's pretty. The melted cinnamon drops give it a pleasing pink color.

CINNAMON APPLE CRISP

¼ cup red hot cinnamon drops
2 tablespoons water
6 cups peeled sliced apples (approx. 6 apples)
2-thirds cup regular all-purpose flour
Three-fourths cup sugar
¾ cup (½ stick) butter
Vanilla ice cream

In a small saucepan over low heat, dissolve the one-fourth cup cinnamon drops in two tablespoons water. Pour over the six cups sliced apples and toss. Turn apples into buttered 9x9-inch pan. In small bowl combine the two-thirds cup flour, three-fourths cup sugar and fourth cup butter; cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse meal. Spread over apples. Bake 45 minutes in 325-degree oven, or until apples are tender

The gala dinner party for employees of 10 years or more is a regular event.

Dave Rasmussen Plans Additional Restaurant

Dave Rasmussen is back from a trek to his Oregon ranch, and construction on his newest restaurant venture, Davey's Locker, is moving along rapidly. Located adjacent to The Shadows of San Mateo, the restaurant, which will include an oyster bar, a hofbrau, cocktails, and probably an intimate pianobar, is expected to be completed by the first of October . . . The Ben Jonson restaurant, located in San Francisco's Cannery, has been recommended by Holiday magazine for the second year in a row as a fine dining out spot. Manager John Ondyke says the important factor is to give the public gourmet food in an atmosphere of friendliness, and customers rave about both. The cocktail lounge boasts unique surroundings and eye-appealing serving wenches, who bring you one of Ben's Beastly Beverages. Open seven days a week for both luncheon and dinner . . . Sam Marconi and his Iron Horse restaurant are a reflection of San Francisco's proud heritage in the art of good dining. Whether you want only a drink or a full-course dinner, we suggest that you try this famed Maiden Lane restaurant. Dinners come complete, with special Iron Horse garlic bread, soup of the day or onion soup, and special mixed salad. Lunches are also popular, and there's a children's menu for those under 12.

Popular Steve Romano Trio Featured At Nick's

Breakfasters who enjoy their omelettes or ham 'n eggs with the view of beach and pounding surf should take advantage of the spectacular surroundings at Nick's Restaurant-Lounge, which stands just yards back from the shoreline at Rockaway Beach, Pacifica. Serving from 10 a.m., Nick's is a favorite stop-off for breakfast, lunch and dinner for those traveling from miles around. There's always an abundance of fun to be found at this Nick Gust owned-operated restaurant. There's a fine bar (try the fizz to go with your breakfast), and dancing five nights a week. Featured Wednesday through Sunday is the lively Steve Romano Trio . . . Located just next door, and also overlooking the waters of the Pacific, is a two-story building housing Nick Gust's Moonraker, a nautical restaurant carefully designed with the gourmet diner in mind. The menu is Continental, and service is from 4 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays; from 11 a.m. on Sundays . . . The Papagayo Room, located in the downstairs level, puts the accent on tangy Mexican dishes and a colorful south-of-the-border cantina atmosphere. Cocktails and banquet facilities are other pluses here. Open Wednesday through Sunday, 4 p.m. to midnight. As an introduction to the dishes of Mexico, Nick Gust offers a "2 for the price of 1" coupon special. All you do is clip the Papagayo Room coupon in Nick's ad.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Phil Lehr's Winning New Prune Rob Roy

Chalk up another winning cocktail for Phil Lehr at his Steakery in downtown San Francisco: The Royal Prune Rob Roy. It's made with Suntory Royal, the extra-smooth sipping whisky, and sweet vermouth. A California prune replaces the usual cherry. And patrons love the taste . . . Enrico Romano often dreams of bubbling kettles, melting cheeses and long strands of spaghetti, because he spends eight to 10 hours each and every day in the kitchen of his Italian restaurant, which is positioned in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica. Romano, who is famed for his Italian dinners and mouth-watering pizzas, is so devoted to his work that he seldom stops in his serving of the public . . . Valerian, who entertains at the piano of the Shirt Tail restaurant in Palo Alto, is truly a musician's musician. He is a graduate of the Yale University School of Music, where he also taught for two years. He led his own orchestra, is a composer and arranger, and has produced his own radio and television shows. Hear him Tuesday through Saturdays. . . .

MUSICAL TRIO — The Tommy Donato Trio provides the dance sounds on Friday and Saturday nights in the Coach and Horses dining room of the Royal Coach Motor Hotel. Featuring Tommy Donato on piano, Curtis Lowe on sax, and Tiny Magardo on drums, the trio recently completed a lengthy engagement at the Claremont Hotel in Berkeley through the booking of Al King's Concerto Music Agency in San Mateo.

Exposition Fish Grotto Hosts Quartermasters

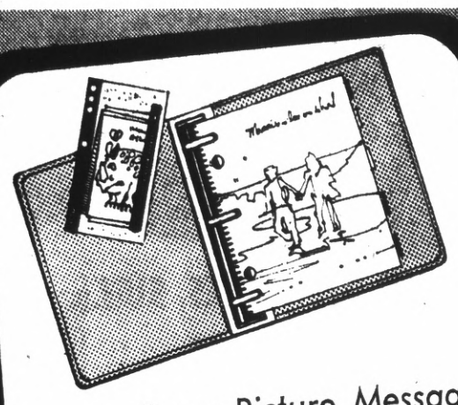

Thirty-five heads of the Army's quartermasters Corps were hosted by the Exposition Fish Grotto, Fisherman's Wharf. The Army is checking out fish and sea food operation at the restaurant level and was treated to a Cook's Tour by the Expo. Plans are underway to actually man the kitchen with members of the Corps for a firsthand look-see into what best serves the purpose . . . Someone has said it will take the Pacific Ocean a few thousand more years to hammer away at the Coastside before the current topography will be drastically changed. Which means you still have plenty of time to get over to Montara to eat at Torres Beach Hotel, just south of Devil's Slide on Coast Highway One. Frank and Fannie Torres are famed throughout the Bay Area for their South American specialties of the house, and for the marvelous view they offer of the pounding Pacific from their dining room . . . Celebrities who regularly go to Scotty Campbell's in Redwood City include sports figures (some of the leading 49er stars dine here) and personalities of TV, movies and radio. Famed politicians have been known to stop in as well. It's not unusual to see Circle Star Theater headliners and their entourage feasting on such popular entrees as Prime Ribs of Beef, Mahi Mahi, and steak.

Villa Hotel Bus Transportation

Hear ye, hear ye: Let the Villa Hotel assist you in enjoying the 49er games at Candlestick Park. Their Villa Special offers the convenience of bus transportation to Candlestick and return without all the parking and traffic hassle. Don't let this fun opportunity slip through your fingers. Call the Villa Hotel and ask for Extension 614. Your bus reservation will then be logged, and the package cost is only $3. Also take note: the Villa Coffee House is now featuring a "Surf and Turf" special which includes soup or salad, potatoes, and vegetables for $2.85. A great way to pacify a big appetite at a small cost. After the games, join the crowds in the Villa Lounge. Music by the Charlie Blackwell Trio will soothe those worries away. And there's dancing for the so inspired . . . The Franciscan, one of the most imposing restaurant structures on San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf, carries a world-wide reputation for excellent seafood. The menu lists countless "house specialties" . . . For a later dinner after a show or ball game, head for Woodlake Joe's, where dinners are served nightly until 11:30 p.m. This is just one of the many little extras offered by "Joe's" owners, who also operate the thriving Brentwood Lodge in South San Francisco.

Vince's Expands — Since 1945

In 1945 Vince Licata opened a small fish market on El Camino Real in San Mateo where Peninsulans could purchase all their favorite fresh seafood. The business became so lucrative that the simple fish market grew into a small restaurant (a few tables and a counter) and Vince served hot items. By popular demand, it wasn't long before dinners were served. Today, Vince's Italian and Seafoods, located on the same site as the old fishmarket, is one of the Peninsula's most sought-out restaurants, where seafood selections and Italian dishes are extensive. There are many different dining areas, a banquet facility, and an intimate cocktail lounge for relaxed conversation while sipping before or after-dinner cocktails. This is now a family affair—Vince's wife, sons and daughters help out in many ways. Vince's is open seven days serving both luncheon and dinner. As for fresh fish to take home for the table, Vince's Seafood Depot, located just next door, continues to cater to particular appetites . . . Besides a wide variety of superb entrees, the fashionable Le Bistro Rouge tempts your palate with several exquisite soups and salads. Add to this Dimitrios' selection of desserts, and you have dinner fare fit for any gourmet. You might ask Dimitrios to select just the right wine to complement your meal.

Searching for Their Heritage

"Chicanos, those Mexican-Americans in search of their heritage, are on the move . . ."

Their story is told in Richard Vasquez's novel, Chicano. It begins with Hector and Lita Sandoval who flee from their country during its bandit-ridden era. Once he is in California, Hector sinks under a tree and dies while "the perforated ulcer on his stomach lining fills his stomach with blood."

"It's hard enough to be Mexican in this country," his daughter declares, "without being honest ... Either do the white man's work, or if you're a young girl service him, or live like an animal in Mexico."

IN THE NEXT generation the children are torn by divided allegiance. "I've learned other people don't live like we do," one cries. "Not even the Mejicanos in the cities. They laugh and say we're Mexican hillbillies."

So the story moves into the dismal life within a Los Angeles barrio where bigotry and bitterness prey upon the residents.

A subplot tells of beautiful Marianna who should have had the best of both worlds but dies instead, the victim of blind prejudice that surfaces during her romance with a "gringo college student."

CHICANO does in story form what Carty McWilliam's book, NORTH FROM MEXICO, does with history and facts.

It was written in 1948 and republished in 1968, 1969 and 1970 because, "historically the Spanish-speaking have often complained that little is known about them, and their problems have received little attention by the larger American public."

In the words of Dr. George Sanchez of the Dniversity of Texas, "North from Mexico is a persistent cry in the wilderness of neglect, mistreatment, and ignorance on the part of those who became dominant after the American occupation of the Southwest."

North from Mexico holds that the Mexican-Americans are "an orphan group, the least sponsored, the least vocal large minority group in the nation."

BUT, ACCORDING to McWilliams, this is changing.

"The Mexican . . . is moving forward with a new vigor and confidence and with a new strong sense of purpose and direction," he says.

This awaking is producing books that are both informative and interesting. Among them are: With the Ears of Strangers, which is a survey of Mexican-American literature compiled by Cecil Robinson; Sal Si Puedes, which is a study of Cesar Chavez and the new American revolution by Peter Mattiessen; An Anthology of Mexican Poetry, edited by Octavia Paz; The Labyrinth of Solitude, which is a study of life and thought in Mexico by Oxtavio Paz; and A Treasury of Mexican Folkways by Francestoor.

There are many more. They are timely and should be widely read.

James Halley

Something Wrong With the System

(James Halley is recovering from influenza and today's column is written by his law partner, Robert H. Cornell.)

There is a growing public dissatisfaction with the present system of compensating the victims of automobile accidents. The following imaginary story, which could happen in any family, illustrates why.

Your brother-in-law, Louie, drives up in a fancy new car. He tells you the $700 down payment came from the proceeds of his automobile settlement. "But Louie," you protest, "that was just a fender scrape, and you only missed a half-day at work."

"I know," smiles Louie, "but I was entitled to something for my 'pain and suffering,' and besides it was cheaper for the insurance company to pay me than to fight me in court."

Two months later, Louie is in a horrendous automobile accident and is seriously hurt. His hospital bills alone quickly reach $25,000, and he will be out of work for six months.

Not only do you feel sorry for Louie, but you are worried for his wife and five children who depend on him for support. Besides, Louie's wife and five children are starting to move into what used to be your den. Will Louie recover his damages? Not if:

It was Louie's fault; or,

The other driver was not at fault; or

The other driver had no insurance and is broke; or

The other driver had the minimum insurance of $15.000 which will only cover part of Louie's hospital bill.

Even if none of these are true, you know that if Louie has to go to court, it may take two or three years before he gets his settlement.

Something is wrong with the system where many people are paid too much on small claims and where people who are seriously injured can be left destitute. Under the present system, a person is liable for injuries or losses of another only if he is legally at fault: e.g., negligent. Automobile insurance policies protect the insured from claims for which he has been held legally liable. Three parties are involved: the insured, the policyholder and the injured party.

One of the major criticisms of the present system of liability based on negligence is the uncertainty, delay and expense of proving that the other driver was at fault. Many people have argued that the general cost of administration of insurance would be substantially reduced if the issue of fault were eliminated.

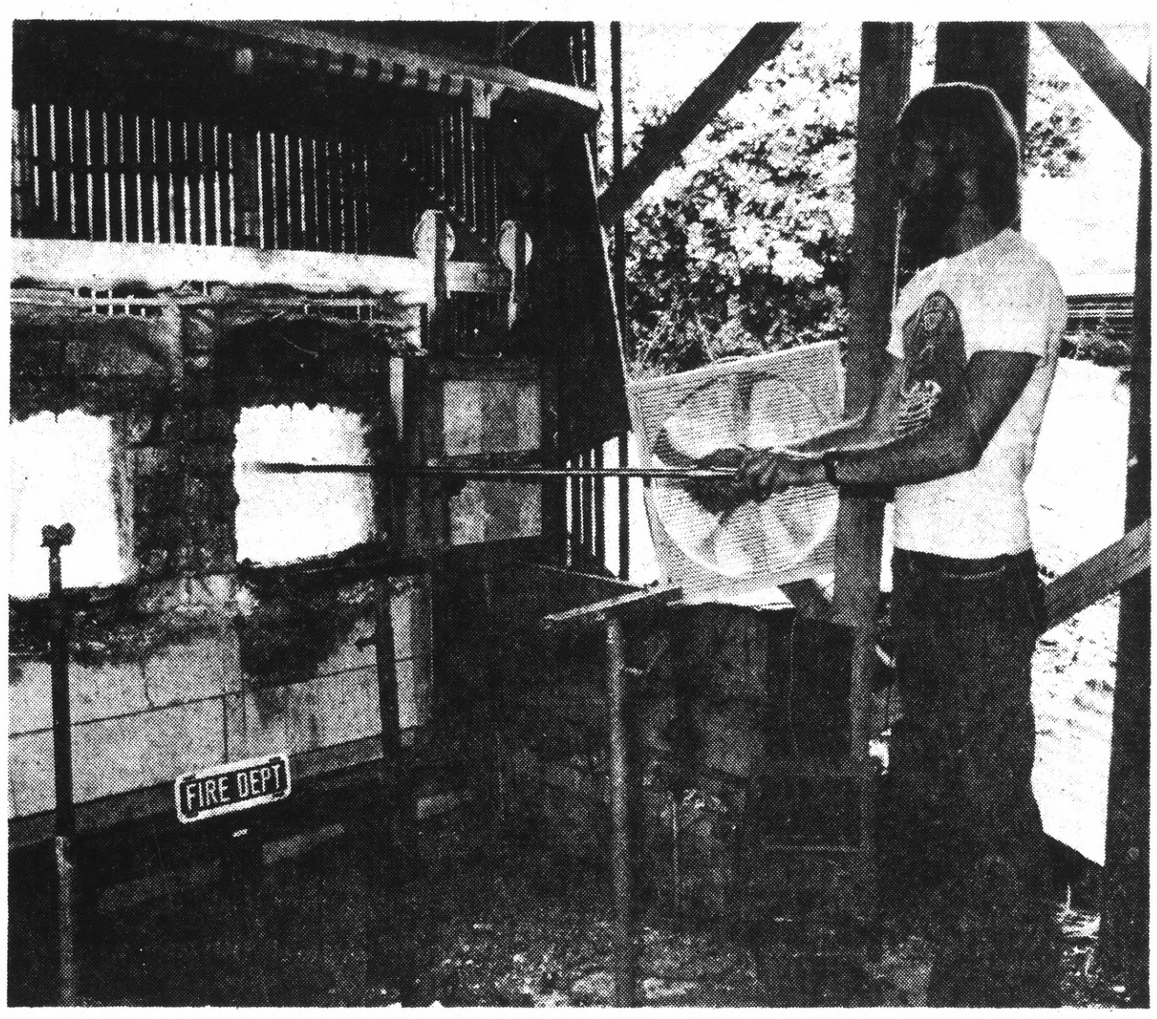

This has led to numerous reform proposals commonly referred to as "no-fault insurance." No-fault insurance generally eliminates the condition that fault be determined before compensation is required and provides that the insurance company compensate its own policyholder for his injuries and losses.

Recently insurance industry spokesmen, the American Bar Association and many legislators have advocated various "no-fault" plans. Some plans eliminate entirely claims for "pain and suffering." Some place a ceiling on the amount of no-fault coverage allowing claims in excess of that ceiling to revert to the tort liability system.

Advocates have hailed their plans as the final answer to the automobile injury problem, and opponents have damned some of the plans as a hoax on the public.

However, all such plans represent a form of compromise. Although they all bear the "no-fault" title, these proposals can be strikingly different and must be analyzed individually.

Each year, there are 20 million automobile accidents, causing over 4 million injuries and almost 55.000 deaths. Economic losses exceed $16 billion. In light of these losses, the efforts now being made by the insurance industry, the ABA, and others to reform the system merit close scrutiny.

THE HOMEMADE OVEN throws out too much heat to be able to work within the city's prescribed 200 square-foot area as outlined in Pacifica's new home occupation ordinance. Glass blower Donald Carlson is seeking a variance to allow his "studio" to remain operative although exceeding the maximum by 66 square feet.

Pacifica Glass Blower

Home Business vs. City Hall

By BOB PETERSON

With a little imagination one could be in Babylon toward the end of the first century, when glass blowing was first introduced.

Serving as lawn furniture is a wooden-wheeled cart, a prop from the movie "Planet of the Apes."

In his canvas-covered lean-to beside his Rockaway Beach home in Pacifica Donald Carlson is adoitly using the technique that was a revolutionary development those many years ago, and sparked a flourishing glass industry among the Romans during the time of Emperor Augustus.

Carlson picked up his specially made iron blowpipe. He rested the four-foot-long pipe so it pointed into the homemade gas furnace. The furnace, "all safety regulated," produces heat up to 2,000 degrees farenheit. It is made of 99 per cent alumina chrysolite bricks, costing $3 apiece.

When the end of the pipe is hot, Carlson picks it up with gloveless hands and blows into the mouthpiece at the opposite end in a testing gesture. Then the pipe is poked into the open furnace door, and a small amount of molten glass is collected on it.

Carlson, wearing sunglasses, steps back, beads of sweat already forming on the bearded face. A 20-inch window-type fan fails to keep the area cool. He places the molten glob on top of a table, built with legs that it look like it was made from a giant erector set.

He quickly rolls the molten glass back and forth on the top of the steel table, shaping the exterior and cooling it slightly. Carlson blows into the mouthpiece. He moves back about 12 feet from the furnace to a bench with iron arms that resemble railroad tracks, but are much smaller. They have iron-hook stoppers to prevent a rolling bar from going over the end. Carlson blows into the pipe again, producing a bubble of glass.

He sits on the bench, placing the blowpipe level with his chest on the bench arms. He rolls the pipe back and forth, ever so tenderly. The fingers of his left hand move up and down with the rolling, like a pianist's going over a keyboard.

While the blowpipe is rolling, Carlson's right hand picks up shears to cut off excess drippings of glass, then a hollowed-out block of fruitwood, sometimes a simple flat paddle and often tongs.

He's continually shaping rolling, shaping, blowing, rolling and shaping the glass bubble on the end of the pipe.

Finally, the end product is placed in a 1,000-degree annealing oven to be tempered.

Carlson wipes his brow and reaches for a half-full bottle of beer. "I sure drink a hell of a lot of beer," he said with a grin.

"Whew! Hot city," he said, nodding at the furnace. "That's what people are paying or when they buy glass — for me to stand in front of that damn furnace."

But he loves it.

"It's a trip. I really like it. It's a lifestyle. I'm just going to continue blowing glass until I get tired. I want to be as good as some of those 70-year-old men in Europe."

Right now, however, Carlson's glass blowing days — in Pacifica — are in jeopardy. "Just because I like to be legal," said Carlson.

It boils down to a matter of 66 square feet.

The city says Carlson is using that much above what is allowed by the city's new home occupation ordinance. The ordinance was recently enacted to keep residential areas free of commercial enterpriss.

When Carlson made application for a home occupation permit to continue his glass blowing operation at 724 Rockaway Beach Avenue, city inspector Pete Kriner recommended denial because of five allged violations of the city code.

None had to do with commercial use in a residential area.

Actually Carlson's been living in that area known as "Rustic Rockaway" for five years, and for the past three has been blowing glass. "Most people keep their mouths shut," said Carlson, concerning his voluntary move to obtain a home occupation permit.

City officials admit that there are many persons in Pacifica who rightly should obtain a permit and business license, but for one reason or another fail to do so.

Carlson's glass blowing future in Pacifica depends on whether he can obtain a variance that will allow him to operate with the additional 66 square feet above the code's 200 maximum.

"I don't really need a lot of money. I scrounge a lot," he said, taking another swallow of beer. He said he was once told that if he worked continually every day he could make upwards of $100,000 a year.

"I can't physically take the heat. My main goal is perfection, not manufacturing," said the 28-year-old bachelor, who shares his home with two cats.

Carlson already has gone through the necessary channels to obtain a variance, asking an exception based on the excessive heat. The matter should be heard at a September 18 hearing of the planning commissioners.

Consultants Doubt Bust-Enlarging Devices

By LORENE BEASLEY

Due to the number of inquiries the Better Business Bureaus have been reciving concerning firms which offer devices or systems to increase the size of the female breast; the Council of Better Business Bureaus, Inc., has gathered the following information from competent medical consultants.

There is no mechanical device or system of exercise that will increase the size of the female breast in spite of the increasing amounts of advertising which promise to do so. Such advertising generally includes testimonials by successful, satisfied users, with before and after measurements indicating that favorable results are achieved.

BUST FIRMING devices and exercise programs strengthen and develop the pectoral muscles which support the breast from the top and side resulting in an increased bust measurement (taken around the chest at the point of greatest bust development). The same increase would be achieved by building up the upper part of the back muscles. According to medical consultants there is no evidence that such development will appreciably enlarge the breasts themselves since there is no muscle tissue contained therein.

The Food and Drug Administration has issued warnings against mechanical costrivances which allegedly increase the size of women's breasts, labeling them swindles and potential health hazards.

Various creams, lotions and ointments are also advertised as useful in developing or increasing the size of the female breast. With the possible exception of lotions containing estrogens, all such products have been found to be worthless as bust developers.

It should be noted in the matter of administration of any sort, the only type of undeveloped breasts that can be helped in such a manner are those of women who suffer from ovarian insufficiency. The women in this group represent a numerically insignificant number.

BECAUSE of the potential dangers inherent with hestrogen therapy, these women should be treated by qualified doctors.

Excluding plastic surgery, the only safe and responsible alternative for a woman who does not have a bust of the desired size is to try to effect apparent changes through the use of good diet, erect posture and appropriate clothing.

Sic Bulldozers After Them...

LET'S STOP FOOLING around with those holdouts on Knowles Avenue in Daly City and sic the bulldozers after them. Not until the City Fathers take the bull by the horns — instead of by the tail — will actual improvement work start.

It could be a showplace for what can be done through development, something badly needed right now when rumors and rumbles threaten the concept. As it is right now, Knowles Avenue is a dust bucket and a disgrace to the city.

AND WHILE WE'RE on the subject of redevelopment (that naughty word so some city officials detest using) this is probably the last chance for Daly City to make something out of itself besides a haven for ticky-tacky row houses that climb halfway to God-knows-shere.

Just once, can't we see some open space around houses with green trees and a little grass? There's nothing wrong with high rise (In D.C. that's anything above four stories) if there are some green belts around.

SPEAKING OF BULL — That release by Jeff Elementary School District Board Chairman Albert Collett and James Cranna, praising Superintendent Frank Greenwood and Associate-for-Business, Roger Barthuli, over "finding" new revenues that could be used to wipe out an anticipated 13½-cent tax rate hike and lower this rate by almost ½ cent, will likely go down in the record books as one of the most obvious political ploys used in recent years.

They didn't even bother to include the rest of the Board in their release. Both are due for re-election in April. What boggles the mind is why Greenwood and Barthuli didn't know about the return on the district's "investments" until after the Board as a whole had acted on the tax rate and budget at a public meeting in City Hall some two weeks ago. Absolutely amazing how such things work out. Now we suppose all us homeowners should jump into the air, kick our heels and shout what a great bunch of guys up there running the school board.

FOR THE FIRST TIME in this reporter's memory there seems to be a split developing on the D.C. council. Either that or my normally wizard mind is finally giving way to old age and senility. Councilman Paul Hupf went against the grain three times at a recent study session, something we haven't heard of in years. He banged away at the scavenger contract between Pacifica and Daly City; he talked at length the use of the Old City Hall on Wellington for a health clinic, and we were so dazzled by this we forgot what the third thing was in this display of brinkmanship. No longer can the folks call the Daly City Council, "San Mateo County's answer to Hawaii Five-Oh."

HOW DO WE stand on use of the old city hall by the Guadalupe Health Clinic? Well, to start with, we've had some more facts brought to our attention. Fact one is that folks from as far away as Colma, Pacifica and South City are using this very worthy clinic. Notice we said "very worthy." That's because it is! We want to see this expand so more folks can use it. It is obviously filling a medical void.

But after listening to how part of those Federal funds will go toward this executive and that official for overseeing the once-grass roots project we caution not to let this program get top heavy like all the others. Once this happens you've defeated its purpose. And, by the way, let's get some of those city folks down in Pacifica, South City and Colma to fork over some dough for the program. Meanwhile, Dear City Fathers, stop the politics and let them have the building. If the project works you can take credit. Otherwise, if it falls on its bedpan because they can't get space there's no way in hell you can point the finger at anyone else.

MAYOR BUD LYCETT was stopped by Officer John Cahill, president of the Daly City Police Officers Association, as he was returning home after attending a benefit party for Officer Jim Richardson at the House of Parties the other p.m. Seems Cahill pulled hizzoner over to the side and issued a stern warning about driving with a couple of lights out. After administering the reprimand, Officer Cahill thanked the mayor for attending the affair.

PURPOSE OF THE BENEFIT was to offset some of the medical expenses encumbered by Officer Richardson's 11-year-old son who has undergone three open heart operations. A good crowd, laced by outstanding citizens (of course, I was there) attended the dinner-dance. Emcee for the event was Officer Ed Guzman. The hall was donated by the Ingleside Sportsman's Club and the work done by the D.C. Police Explorer Scouts. It was a good dinner for a worthy cause. It's nice to see how the police lend a helping hand when one of their own needs it.

WHAT KIND OF A nutty election year is this? Assemblyman Leo Ryan is heading for Alaska midway through his campaign for the U.S. Congress (alright, stop the wisecracks all you Chase backers out there). He is coming back, Bob Caughlan assured us. But perhaps he shouldn't — especially after that recent release I received concerning the old Southern Pacific steam engine on exhibit at the San Mateo County fairgrounds earlier this month. It seems the engine had to be relocated on the grounds and Ryan, on hand to drive the first spike, asked us to attend this "moving event." Another crack like that and I'll be "moving," right out of his Congressional district.

WE NOW GIVE our Flat of the Sword award to Assembly candidate Theodore Long. This much-detested award is given periodically to those we feel are the most deserving. Long won hands down this week because of the smear campaign being run by his supporters obviously with his knowledge and consent. The latest "smear" is a cheap cartoon childishly drawn depicting his opponent, Louis Papan, talking rough while in the background bulldozers supposedly owned by Henry Doelger (not Dolger as the cartoon spells it) rumble by; Foremost-McKesson (spelled Formost in the cartoon) hover on San Bruno Mtn., Deane and Deane (in Half Moon Bay yet) are included, ad nauseam. Come on, attorney Long, is that the best you can do? At least spell the names right.

It will interest you to know, folks, that Mr. Doelger who hasn't built anything in Daly City for years, recently sold his last properties last month. A public statement is due any day now.

THE POST'S SPORTS

Le Pacini

Well, Somebody Did Something

IT HAPPENS every time!

You set out to impress friends, and everything goes wrong.

Like, a couple of weeks ago, we wrote of how the softball team on which we play took the Daly City Recreation Department Adult Slow Pitch Softball League championship in the B West division.

We devoted an entire column to the team, and bragged to our teammates about how important we were and how every one of them would have a write-up in the newspaper. We wrote the column that way, but somebody around the office must have sold an ad or something, because the column appeared minus the last 30 lines, which meant minus a lot of names.

So in perhaps a vain attempt to bring the ribbing and the complaining to a halt, herewith are the original last 30 lines, which is a position-by-position review of who played how, and probably the only time in the history of this column that an item has been published for the consumption of just 16 readers.

PITCHING When Tracy Redman couldn't make two of the games, Loren Moughler pitched and won them both. Ron Parshell relieved in a game or two, and relieved well.

CATCHING — This was the spot reserved for guys with bad wheels. As a consequence, catchers were Joe Monterosso, Moughler, Parshell, Jim Fluke, and Gene Townsend.

FIRST BASE — Exclusive territory of Bill Rainey, sure handed around the bag and one of the leading hitters.

SECOND BASE — Although Jerry Brower, Monterosso, and Parshell all had cracks at it, long ball hitting Dick Snodgrass did most of the playing there.

SHORTSTOP Was manned by one of the kids, Gary Barton, who was to Daly City softball what Chris Speier is to the National League. Gary has range, hands, and a bazooka hanging from his right arm. He truthfully has the finest non-pitching arm we've seen in amateur baseball, hard or softball, in the 25 years we've been watching it.

THIRD BASE — Manned primarily by steady Ed Perry, although Brower, Monterosso, Moughler and Parshell all had cracks at it.

LEFT FIELD — Young Bobby Murry, who covered it like a blanket.

CENTER FIELD — Dave Holland, who plays center in a snow cap and dark glasses better than anyone we've sever seen. When Dave had a hot date, yours truly was out there, yelling, "You take it!" to the other outfielders.

RIGHT FIELD — Phil Gentile, cousin of former big leaguer Jim Gentile. Phil made some of the year's most spectacular catches and toward season's end was the team's big power hitter.

SHORT FIELD — Joe Bonnici, who never once got hit on the head, threw to all the right bases, and hit like crazy in the clutch. Mr. Old Pro of the squad.

A COUPLE of interesting observations from Jack Downey, long-time boxing official:

When Jack heard of Joe Louis' "confession" in the latest book about him that he had been on cocaine, Jack shook his head over the tragic personal life of Louis.

"Poor Joe just never seemed to get any breaks outside of the ring," laments Downey. "One of my most vivid memories is of Joe at an Athens Club banquet when he came to Oakland years ago, when he was an up-and-coming contender.

"Joe was there with an entourage of hangers-on who were just sort of shoving him around, directing him, and he seemed very, very sad."

Downey also raises a good point about the famed — or notorious — picture during World War I of Jack

DC Playground Action

Webster Warriors Win 4th Straight

The Daly City 1972 Summer Playground program draws to a close with the final full week of activity.

Daniel Webster (Tom Nuris) — The undefeated Daniel Webster "Warriors" baseball team increased its record to 4 wins and no losses as they rolled over George Washington School last week. Behind the pitching of Frank Colclough, The "Warriors" jumped to an early lead of 7-0 after the first inning. Hits were collected by Don Ricci, Peter and Rob Martin, Brian McVeigh, Dave Hirsch, Tony Moquin, Frank Colclough, Ron Spinetti and Rich Mazzucco which amounted to a final score of 12 to 0 with the "Warriors" in firm control all the way.

Outdoor broom hockey was played for the first time last week at Webster and became an immediate hit. Among the participants were Mike Montague, George, Peter, Rob, and Albert Martin, Joe and Tony Maurino, Mark Freitas, Phil Rodriguez, Tony Ricci and the playground leader.

The inhabitants of Daniel Webster have been preparing for the culminating event, "World of Games" by brushing up on chess, carroms, ping-pong and baseball (which are already Varsity Sports at this playground) in addition to developing their skills in the many other events that will be featured at Westlake Park.

Sherri Krow and Debbie Rodriguez are to be commended for their demonstrated bravery and courage by playing Knuckles. Both young ladies took their hits admirably and dished out punishment as well. Unfortunately, Debbie and Sherri will now have to forsake their dreams of becoming hand models in TV commercials as a result of playing "cut throat" knuckles.

F. D. Roosevelt (Ed Darnell and Dean Chalios — F.D.R. Summer Awards: Most Improved, Jim Russitano; Best Attendance to Park, Clay Troxler; Soul Brother Award: Dan Braumsey; Biggest Flirts, Julie Hernandez and Robin Jue; Chris Spier Award, Marty Sands; Best Family Attendance Award, The Lewis Family; The Tito Fuentes Award, Peter Ricci; The Longest Sleeper Award, Ralph Sands; The Cassius Clay-Sonny Liston Award, Tracy and Keith Gilbert; The Coors Award, Jeff Baca and Karl Amaral; The Foulest Mouth Award, Sam Hernandez; The A. J. Foyt Award, George Reid; The Bashful Award, Donna Palestrini; The Casanova Award: Jerry Barry; The Jerry West Award, Kendall Lee; Best Assistant Playground Leader, Dean Chalios; Billy Cunningham Award, Ralph Sands.

Junipero Serra (William Schultz) — The second to last week of Junipero Serra playground program included a bicycle trip to Lake Merced. Getting there was swift and trouble free except for the 20 odd stops to fix bicycles, get water, rescure fishing poles, etc., etc. The fishing at the Lake proved equally exciting — several snags of Algae and a plastic bag were landed. On the trip home, those with multi-geared bikes were soon separated from those with regular bikes. (At one point, the entire party was spread out over a few blocks.) Participants included David Algunas, Steve Schneck, Kevin Whalen, Terje Rogne and Greg Griffin. Most agreed the trip was fun, though chaotic.

Meanwhile back at Junipero Serra, the regulars continue to hang out around the carroms table while preparation for the final event, takes place. All kids from Junipero Serra will wear armbands.

Greg Griffin has become the new chess champion by defeating Don Escoboza.

Northridge Park (Steve Becker) — The action currently at Northridge has been concentrated mainly on the football field with as many as 12 men per team. Last Wednesday morning Wayne Wynn, Gavin Lau, Charles Travis, Philip Frankel, Martin Sweet, Nicky DeGussman, Josh Davis, and Joey "hot-to-trot" Samuelson participated while Jimmy Murphy piloted the attack. Victor Sirianni and Ricky Pender are two extremely aggressive athletes who square off against each other occasionally.

An exciting event during the week was the burial rites for the pet mouse Socrates, who died a quiet death and not by the hand of an Ernest Borgnine.

This week is the training period for our pet frog "Warts" to be entered in the Second Annual Frog Jumping Contest to be held at the "World of Games" day at Westlake Park.

Panorama (Michael Macia) — Dave Lopez once again retained his ping-pong championship as he defeated Frank Pacetti in 2 matches for the championship. Dave went the whole summer only losing two games at Panorama.

A carroms tournament was also started last Friday, and while the players competed, a watermelon was opened for all to enjoy. Steve Jajah, Bob Gradwohl, Daryl Jackson are still in contention.

Vista Grande (Robert Rossi) — The summer program comes to a close this week at Vista Grande School, and now I would like to thank those kids who

Swingin' A's And Seals Cop Playoffs

George McLaughlin's Swingin' A's and Peter Lucia's Seals picked up first round playoff victories and will meet to decide the championship in the high school slow pitch league sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department.

The Swingin' A's reached the title game by completely throttling the Regal Selects, 4-0. The A's pitching and defense was superb. Pitcher Jeff Borghello hurled a 2 hitter to defeat the Selects. The A's "million $ defense" once again was base hit proof as only two balls hit the outfield grass. Harold Day, George McLaughlin, Tom McLaughlin and Lou Madrano constantly kept the Selects in check.

The Seals gained a spot in the championship game by Shutting out the Hobos 3-0. Don Thueners long triple was the big hit for the Seals. Jeff Baca and Ralph Sands also had timely hit for the streaking Seals. Pete Lucia and Bob Finney sparkled on defense for the Seals. The Seals must now defeat the Swingin' A's twice to capture the championship.

DC Adult Slow Pitch Play: Bay Bailers, Lounge in Front

In the Daly City adult Slow Pitch Softball League the Bay Bailers and the Westlake Lounge remain in first place in the A league with a 2-0 record.

Sierra Ski N' Dive behind John Jarvis with 2 hits and excellent pitching upset Q-Rolo Sheet Metal 7 to 4. Joel Carrara and Bill Feeley turned in three double plays. The Bay Bailers found leaks in the Broadway Plumbers defense and exploited this for a 6 to 4 win. Dave Galasi had a 3-run homer for the Bailers and Jim Fosebery two hits and two rbi's to lead the winners to victory.

The Westlake Lounge sat back and waited for the pivotal moment in the game and when it came Tom Shaddox swung and the Masterbatters tasted defeat for the first time in Daly City, 2 to 1.

The Raiders attacked the B of A and overdrew their account, 25-10.

National League

The Odd Squad feasted on Gem Meats and came away with a 12 to 2 win. Rich Brewer with 4 for 4 and Mike Ciardella with "2 for 2" led the Odd Squad attack. Mark Avelar looked like an octopus as he caught everything hit towards the mound. Lespin Leroy Attabit sparkled on defense for the Odd Squad as he stopped many rallys before they got started. Able Building constructed an early lead and coasted to a 10-4 victory over the Soul Patrol.

In one of the best defensive games of the season Bader's Jewelers edged the Pomona Casuals, 3 to 2. Bruce Farber scored the winning run in the bottom of the tenth inning on a misplay by the pitcher. Bruce, Farber, Bob Barber, Jeff Simon, Dave Dillen and Noel Bader each had 2 hits for the Jewelers. The Whispers secretly sneaked past the fools in a game that wasn't a laugher by any means.

Ron (The Hacker) Hackett went "4 for 5" and scored two runs in this close contest. Jerry Montague, Greg Hanson, Gary Bender and Gil Acevedo all did their share of hitting. The Fools stayed close all the way as Donald Carter, Leighton AhPo and King Kingsley all played outstanding games.

The Brothers IV are the only undefeated team in the American after only 2 weeks of play. In this week's action the Brothers IV downed the Emanons, 6-4, with a great team effort and clutch hitting from Lance Racine and Red Allen who had five rbi's. Nestle Company tasted sweet victory as they opened their season with a 15 to 8 win over Canco. Nestle led by the sweet stroke of Paul Tapia and the defensive play Rick Clatt savored this win. This Wallbangers rattled the boards for a 5 to 4 win over a tough Motley's team. Jerry Hess banged out a two-run homer and Norm Garcia had 3 hits to lead the Wallbangers attack. The Klackers clicked for a 7 to 2 win over Gino's Lounge. Steve Lucicp hit a two-run homer for the Klackers and Tim Bailey made some fantastic defensive plays to cut off potential rallys. Ed Perry and Joe Bonniei played great defense and Gary Barton had a perfect "3 for 3" night as J & J Plumbing recorded its second straight shutout, 4 to 0, over Melody Toyota. Hector Gonzalese's Toyota team would just start rolling and the J & J defensive would put up a road block to run their shutout inning string to 14 innings. The Blankers led by Captain Frank Hund withdrew their first victory this year in Daly City by a score of 18 to 1 over the Nomads.

The Roundtable Knights outdid the World of Carpets 11 to 10 in a real squeaker. Rich Brewer and Fred Holewinske had an outstanding game for the Knights. Western Dental extracted a big one over Longs Drugs, 14-8.

2901 Club Wins Crown

The 2901 Club, behind the bats of Justin Brinks and Stan Taufer Jr., with two hits apiece, up-ended A&W 10-3 to win the 1972 Pacifica Softball Championship.

A&W was placed in the loss by Frank McGrath and Lee Lorin, each rapping out two hits in the loss.

Well, Somebody Did Something

Dempsey posing as a blacksmith in what was supposedly his contribution toward the war effort as a shipyard worker; a picture which immediately garnered him the label of "slacker," the reason being that he was wearing striped pants and patent leather shoes.

Downey's point is that it wasn't so incongruous in those days to be dressed formally while working on a labor-type job. He recalls that when things were tough and he and his brothers were out of work, they'd hound employment agencies dressed to the nines in order to make an impression, but were often sent out on one-day jobs such as digging ditches. They wouldn't have time to go home and change, so more than once showed up for laboring jobs dressed like office workers.

WE NEVER CEASE to be amazed at the standards top professional golfers set for themselves. After the end of the second round of the PGA, for example, Jack Nicklaus, who shot a 75, declared it "the worst round I've played this year. I couldn't make myself concentrate. I could not make my body do what my mind wanted it to do."

Nicklaus then went on to explain how he had missed 10 greens, didn't drive well, didn't stroke well, didn't chip well, and didn't think well.

Lee Trevino, that same day, shot a 71 and conceded that he had problems, but added, "I'm not giving up."

Arnold Palmer shot a 75, and talked about his chipping and putting difficulties, and said, "It's just awful and I'm very disgusted . . ."

This all leads us to wonder what Nicklaus, to single him out, would have shot that day had he been able to concentrate, drive well, chip well and think well, considering that he shot a 75 without doing any of those things well. What would it have beenq About a 35j Or, conversely, if Jack was thinking in terms of, say, a 68, that means that driving "well" would have meant a matter of only, perhaps, two strokes, as opposed to driving "poorly"; chipping "well" perhaps another two strokes; thinking, perhaps another two, and so on. Applying that kind of thinking to our game — which consists of once having broken 100 on a pitch-and-putt course, we would shoot about a 96 if we really put it all together.

BASEBALL NOTES: Last year the Giants finished 16th in team homeruns among the 24 big league clubs. Early this season, they disposed of two of their top HR men, Dick Dietz and Willie Mays, and their really big man, Willie McCovey, was disabled. Another of their top power men, Ken Henderson, started the season in a slump out of which he's just recently come, and Bobby Bonds is even now somewhat behind his usual homerun pace. And then, with Dave Kingman in the middle of the league's homerun race several weeks ago, he sprained his ankle and fell substantially behind the leaders.

Now, knowing all of this, but not having followed the Giants' progress this season, what odds would a gambler give if someone wanted to play a bet that at this very moment, the Giants are leading the majors in homeruns and are being outscored only by Pittsburgh, the NL East leader, and Cincinnati and Houston, the one-two teams in the West division?

Speaking of hitting, it's ironic that the worst hitting team in the majors — Texas — is managed by one of the greatest hitters of all time, and a man all hitters in trouble go to for advice — except, apparently, his own players. That's Ted Williams, of course.

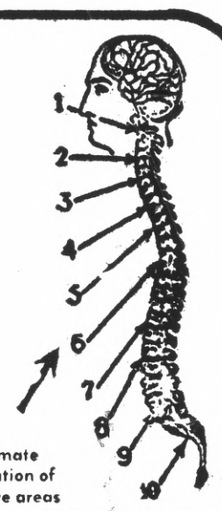

A source which we consider to be reliable discounts any and all rumors of Horace Stoneham either selling the Giants to a group which would keep them in San Francisco, or keeping the team and moving it out.

"Stoneham loves San Francisco," says our source. "He'd never leave the city."

Question Man About Airport Car Thefts

A young San Francisco man apprehended at San Francisco International Airport yesterday following a chase by San Mateo County sheriff's detectives was being questioned concerning the burglaries of 25 automobiles in airport parking lots over the past six weeks, Sheriff's Capt. Donald Hartnett reports.

Apprehended by detectives Hal Terrents and Gene Boklund was Ronald Allen Hodges, 20.

Hartnett said the suspect fled in his car after being spotted in the parking garage by the detectives, who were staked out there near a Porsche automobile, the type which has been subjected to most of the recent burglaries. Hodges was stopped by the detectives with the assistance of airport police.

Found in Hodges' car, the captain reported, were three radios, a Porsche tire, a tape player, binoculars and master keys for Porsche cars.

The suspect also is being questioned concerning the theft of two cars from the airport recently, Hartnett said.

Dog Rescue

Nobody asked him how he got there, but Pacifica firemen rescue units about 3 a.m. today dutifully rescued a Doberman Pinscher stranded on a cliffside about 20 feet below the roadside at Shelter Cove.

According to a fireman spokesman, they lowered a man to the dog, taped the dog's mouth shut and hauled the animal up to safety. He was turned over to the SPCA.

Firemen also lowered a man to the rocks below where the dog was stranded to check for any possible human victims. None was found, firemen said.

In whiffle ball action, Sol Murdoch, Barry and Terry Ratto and Steve Chester continue to dominate opponents, with their timely hitting and flashy fielding.

A barbecue was held to the delight of all as the hamburgers and hotdogs lured many with their fragrant aroma.

In the Boys Fifth Grade Late Summer Baseball League the O.L.M. Mustangs survived the evenly matched league to win the championship.

In last week's action Joe Alonzo's P.A.L. Cardinals stayed close on the heels of the Mustangs with a 10 to 1 win over O.L.P.H. W. Dlority and M. Alonzo each pitched three innings for the Cardinals.

In other action the Mustangs edged the S.A.L. Indians, 9 to 3. In the final week of play the S.A.L. Indians came back from their previous defeat to down the O.L.P.H. Team, 6-3.

In the game that decided the fifth grade championship, Chris Chiarella smashed a bases-loaded single, to drive in two runs, and Ray Newhoff pitched four innings of four-hit baseball to gain credit for the victory.

Doug Price relieved Newhoff and pitched the last two innings allowing only one hit.

Cow Palace 3-Alarmer; Major Loss

A smokey two-alarm fire destroyed some 2,000 mattresses and caused an estimated $135,000 damage in an out-building at the Cow Palace Friday.

Firemen battled the stubborn blaze for three hours in a storage warehouse, some distance from the main arena building. The corrugated metal structure was used for stacking bedding used during the annual Junior Grand National Livestock show.

No one was hurt and firemen were able to prevent the fire from spreading to nearby buildings, according to Battalion Chief Wayne Alexander.

The chief said employees working in the area discovered the fire about 1 p.m. Cause of the blaze is still under investigation, he said.

Complaint in Bruno Crash

San Bruno police are seeking a complaint from the district attorney's office in connection with a two-car collision Saturday at Skyline and Westborough boulevards.

According to police, a car driven by John J. Casey Jr., 42, of 1449 Murchison Drive, Millbrae, collided with a vehicle driven by Daniel Lee Teixeira, 24, of San Bruno.

Police said Teixeira was making a left turn from Westborough Boulevard onto Skyline Boulevard when he was struck broadside by Casey.

According to police a complaint will be sought against Casey. Both were treated for minor injuries, but neither was hospitalized.

$100,000 in New Savings For S.S.F.?

South San Francisco's consultant head of the newly formed Department of Ecological Development is planning ome more changes he says "appear to have a chance for $100,000 in savings.'

Fred Hull, speaking before the South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce Wednesday, however, said he could not divulge just exactly what is planned.

"I'll tell you when we do it." he responded to a question of "How?" from a reporter.

Hull was guest speaker with the topic "Everything you wanted to know about VTN — But were afraid to ask!"

Councilman and chamber member William Borba, who has been critical of Hull and VTN although reportedly voting in favor of the reorganization, said half-facetiously, "I'm here to see what's with VTN."

Hull gave a brief background of his firm, and sail that in the future there will be more minor and major changes in the city's government for purposes of operating more efficiently.

The minor changes were explained as such things as saving money by getting a better quality of paint for painting the striping on the streets.

For major changes, he will recommend "reorganization and redistribution of staffing of (unnamed) divisions" to determine efficiency of operation.

Hull told the chamber members that there are no immediate plans for revitalizing the city's downtown (Grand Avenue) business area.

"Our (VTN's) purpose is to have the employes to continue to do their jobs well, and maybe a little cheaper," he said.

County P.C. Adds Knoll To Park Plan

Acting on a recommendation of the Board of Supervisors, the San Mateo County Planning Commission voted Wednesday to include the 120-acre "knoll" adjacent to South San Francisco's Hillside School as a part of the proposed San Bruno Mountain park and open space area.

With the addition of the knoll, the anticipated park and open space area on the mountain now totals 1202 acres. Most of the area lies south of Guadalupe Canyon Parkway near the mountain's saddle area.

The commission previously included the main park and open space area of 1040 acres and a 42-acre "buffer" zone on the north side of the parkway surrounding the headwaters of Colma Creek.

County Planning Director Donald Woolfe said inclusion of the knoll area will provide access to the park and open space territory from South San Francisco.

State Okays Laguna Job

The state has authorized Pacifica's Laguna Salada School District to accept the bid of $367,500 from Armand Company for construction of a new Mentally Retarded training facility.

The trustees already had approved the contract and work has begun, with the building pad nearly completed. The entire project is to be completed within nine months.

Development Association

Environment Awards Presented

More than 250 business and community leaders attended the San Mateo County Development Association's Environmental Awards Dinner last week at Peninsula Country Club in San Mateo.

Serramonte Shopping Center in Daly City was awarded the commercial environmental award for providing easy public access and blending in with the surrounding environment. Fred Gellert of Suburban Realty Company accepted the award for the $220 million center.

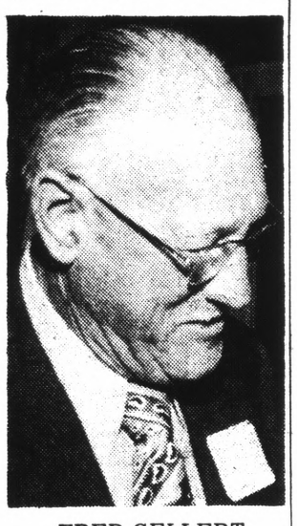

The industrial environment award was presented to Cabot, Cabot & Forbes Office and Industrial Park in South San Francisco. Development association officials noted the 600-acre industrial park has plentiful parking, easy freeway accessibility and good street lighting.

Samuel A. Craig accepted the award plaque for the park which is in its eighth year of development.

The administrative executive environmental award was given to Thomas Ford's Office Park on Sand Hill Road in Menlo Park. The office park is being developed with more than 50 percent open space. The association awarded the office complex the plaque because of the low density of the park.

An honorary environmental award was presented to David D. Bohannon for his concern for the environment while establishing the Bohannon Industrial Park in Menlo Park and Hillsdale Shopping Center in San Mateo.

A. T. Paioni, recently re-elected president of the Development Association, presided over the environmental awards dinner. Paioni told the group that economic growth is desirable and said the community should concentrate on working out the best way in which economic growth can take place, rather than trying to prevent it.

Coast Control Plan Reaction Is Mixed

An ocean coastline plan that would regulate use of Pacific shores in four Bay Area counties through a new regional agency with broad powers drew mixed responses from San Mateo County leaders at a meeting in San Rafael Wednesday.

Pacifica Mayor Grace McCarthy called the report "dictatorial, condescending, inconsistent and deeply shocking."

The plan proposes acquiring 39,150 acres of coastal land at a cost of from $66 million to $81 million — an increase of 46.2 per cent in the acreage now publicly owned.

"Over-all, no use of any coastal resource should be allowed which damages or degrades that resource or which negatively affects coastal character," the plan states.

San Mateo County Supervisor Jean Fassler said she disagreed with certain parts of the report but would reserve specific criticism for a public hearing on the proposal in San Mateo County, still to be scheduled.

She said she felt that agricultural uses along the coastline could be preserved by reforming assessment practices.

Kent Dedrick, vice president of the Committee for Green Foothills, praised the report and urged "some immediate control" be imposed on the coastline.

Dedrick said he favored the plan's proposals to relieve pressures on farmers by limiting water, sewer and highway access to coastal areas. He cited agriculture as San Mateo County's largest industry and said it "should not only be encouraged but protected by every tool available to local government."

Of the more than 128,000 acres of developable land in the primary coastal area, the report said, 75 per cent has environmental hazards such as a seismic fault line or would conflict with recreational or specialty agricultural use or destroy a

The plan says the State Division of Highways should submit all plans to the proposed regional agency for coastline regulation. Proposals to increase traffic capacity on Cabrillo Highway, such as the Devil's Slide bypass in San Mateo County, are questioned by the proposed plan. The highway should remain basically as it is, the plan said.

The plan was presented to the Ocean Coastline Planning Committee of the Association of Bay Area Governments

Nab Two on Cafe Caper

Two young San Brunans were arrested Wednesday on charges of "defrauding an innkeeper."

Booked were David K. Kuehnert, 21, of 686 Green Avenue and Robert G. Gustafson, 22, of 905 Third Avenue.

According to police the pair walked into Chiquita's Restaurant, 681 San Mateo Avenue, San Bruno, ordered two complete Mexican dinners, valued at $12.13, wrote a note on the back of the check saying they could not pay the bill, and left the restaurant running.

$150 Taken in S.S.F. Theft

Some time between Monday night and Tuesday morning burglars entered the Pee Wee Golf facility on Mission Road in South San Francisco and escaped with $150 in cash from coin boxes and machines, police said.

Flags at Apartments 'A Bit Too Much'

Waving flags as a means to draw customers to new apartment sites is passe in Pacifica.

Planning Commissioner Lee Forster said flags were "a bit too much" and that they created "a carnival atmosphere" at the entrance to Pacifica.

Forster's comments were aimed at a request of Lawwin Multi-Family Builders to place advertising signs and flag poles on top of them at "Kimberly Woods Apartments" site at Gateway Drive and Hickey Boulevard.

"I really don't think that's very good planning," said Forster.

Commissioner Humberto Bermudez said he agreed with Forster.

"It's high time these poles were done away with," said Bermudez.

He said that the signs themselves are readily seen, and "on a foggy day with 40-foot poles you couldn't see them (flags) anyhow. They are too many too high and what I call urban blight," said Bermudez.

Chairman Al Rosenberg agreed.

Commissioner Don Halverson moved that the use permit be granted for a six-month period. The motion died for lack of a second. On a new motion with the flag poles and flags deleted, Commissioner Dick Meier voted with Halverson. The use permit was approved 3-2 with other cimmissioners absent.

When a second and similar request was made by Dyna-Growth on "Sundowner Apartments" at Palmetto Avenue just north of McDonald's Restaurant, representative Mark Williams of San Jose stood up and voluntarily withdrew any request for flags and flag poles.

Pacifica Moves to Restrict Small Apartments

Most communities include minimum dwelling unit size requirements in zoning ordinances.

Pacifica does not, except in high-rise apartments.

But that is going to change if the city council adopts a recommndation of the city's planning commissioners.

Commissioners not only passed a resolution of intent to set a public hearing for minimum dwelling unit sizes, they also passed a resolution of intent for minimum building distance at their Monday night meeting.

Under present city code, for example, a builder or subdivider may construct very small dwellings. The city recently received an application for a new single-family dwelling to be built on Pedro Point, showing only 672 square feet.

With adoption of a new ordinance a single-family dwelling would be required to have a minimum "net usable" floor area of 850 square feet. This does not include walls, open porches, decks, patios, common hallways, stairways, clothes closets, cabinets, garages or carports.

The city planning staff reported to the commissioners that omission of a minimum size provision is "inconsistent with protective police power features of residential zone areas and discriminates against one high-rise residential zone district."

According to a staff report, the city's housing code mandates building permits be issued for a dwelling consisting of a total of 185 square feet. No such requests have been received

Theoretically, a buildr or subdivider could construct small apartment units, or condominium units, provided they exceed the minimum 185 square feet in area.

The staff report said builders commonly submit plans showing apartment units of 600 square feet or less each.

"Staff submits that such small units have the potential for creating havoc to the character of residential areas, contrary to one of the primary functions of a zoning ordinance," said the report.

eliminates specific standards for the high-rise district and incorporates a new section covering standards for all residential units.

The proposed new ordinance

A special provision for senior citizen units is included with the "bachelor" and "studio" units standards of 450 square feet.

For the purpose of the proposed ordinance, a condominium is considered a single-family dwelling.

As to minimum building distance, the code amendment is presented, according to staff, because current regulations encourage the design of flat roofs.

Present codes thereby penalize designs with more arcnitecturally attractive and interesting roof lines which may slope or otherwise provide a "broken" skyline, the report said. That is because in the current regulations the entire height of the structure must be considered in calculating distance.

Under the proposed ordinance, the distance between any two buildings in any dwelling group would be at least one-half the sum of the height of the two buildings, but not less than 25 feet.

2 Ivies Not Landscaping?

Pacifica planning commissioners Monday adopted a resolution of intent calling a public hearing October 2 to consider revoking a use permit for the Adobe Shopping Center.

Commissioners were anxious about what they considered failure on the part of permit holder James Telegan to comply with approved landscape plans

Planning administrator Bob Morrow said Telegan apparently feels landscaping is adequate. Morrow said two ivy plants are growing.

It's No Fun

A Visit to County Jail

By GEORGE GOLDING

Being a prisoner at County Jail is probably no fun.

Visiting a prisoner is no fun, either, but it is an unusual experience.

For one thing, it makes you aware of another segment of society, a group of people who do not load you with shame because you happen to know someone inside.

You arrive at the jail on a quiet Saturday or Sunday afternoon, or on a mid-week night, hoping that none of your friends, neighbors, or business acquaintances sees you.

Unfamiliar with the routine, you park across the block from the County Hall of Justice and walk around the modernized version of "gray prison walls" to the sheriff's office. There you find a sign directing you to another entrance for the jail, in the building's main lobby.

As you enter, you see two deputies operating a sign-up desk in the lobby and several people sitting around, waiting. You expect to wait.

But no, you explain to the deputies who you want to see, identify yourself, and go right over to the elevators armed with a slip of paper.

Another deputy operates the elevator, so you don't even have to ask for the floor the jail is on. Which is fortunate, since you don't know.

Arriving on the fourth floor, you get out. Everyone else aboard the elevator gets out, too. Everyone is going to the same place.

The room is a waiting room, nearly filled with plastic chairs. At one side are a couple of pay phones. Dead ahead is a blank wall. Behind you are the elevators. That leaves only one side, the functioning side, a glass-windowed wall shutting you off from a group of blue-uniformed deputies grouped around various office machines and other devices.

One of the windows is for arranging to visit prisoners, the other is for "money." You cannot take things to prisoners, neither cigarettes nor cash, nor narcotics, nor guns, not even so much as a stick of chewing gum. You can give money to a clerk for the prisoner, so that your friend or family member may purchase his own cigarettes or chewing gum from the jail commissary on the days it operates.

You get your receipt, give the slip of paper from downstairs to the clerk-deputy at the other window, and are told to wait.

Small dramas unfold as you wait.

A woman who is even newer to all this than you are comes in asking to bail out her husband. She waves her checkbook and is told the county jail does not accept checks. The bail is only $35, but she has no cash. She persists but finally the sergeant in charge convinces her that a check will not be accepted. She is advised to cash a check elsewhere, if possible, or to get a bail bondsman.

The woman asks to have the name of a bondsman suggested, and the deputy behind the bulletproof glass window politely says state law prohibits him.

In the waiting room, everyone has been listening. They are all more experienced, pity the woman her naivite, pity her the first experience.

She leaves the window, looking toward the pay phones. A young man waves his arm and points toward a bail bondswoman doing business with a client in the rear row. The bondswoman hushes him; she can get in legal difficulties, (apparently for soliciting business inside a courthouse or jail), she says.

Another waiting visitor walks over, hands the woman a bondsman's business card, and returns to her seat, saying nothing.

The naive woman goes to the telephone, dials a number from the card, and begins to talk.

To avoid listening, you go over to the deputies' window and read a card which gives the rules for visiting. A prisoner is only allowed three visits a week, and may only see any one person once each week. The rules are simple, and you find yourself unable to avoid hearing the woman on the telephone.

She is telling the bail bondsman how her husband was arrested, who she is, what kind of job he holds, what work she does. We are all slightly amazed that a person in such a position should be in such a situation, but then we understand.

We are all in the same situation, and it has nothing to do with our station in life, our occupation or educational background, our race, creed or color. We are all in the same boat because we feel the duty to visit someone in jail. Someone who is close to us, but who is nonetheless, someone else. We are not the inmates; we are the visitors.

People move out of a hallway to the waiting room, and on to the elevators. They talk softly, if at all.

Suddenly, the overhead loudspeaker blatts to life. It is not a hi-fi system, but the words are clear as a deputy inside the glass-walled room advises that "visitors for prisoners Glattschmalk, Dingbatt, and Pilfy," enter the hallway to the visiting room area.

The names are unintelligible, as you listen for the one you came to visit, but people arise and disappear into the empty hallway. They know the way, they have been here before.

The woman seeking a bail bondsman has been explaining her difficulties over the phone, and by now everyone is aware of all the details of her predicament. They know which steps they would have taken to avoid certain difficulties. They would have gone to a bail bondsman first, discussed those details in privacy.

A young man comes out of a heavy door in the windowed wall, wearing tattered jeans, undershirt, and no shoes. He waves gaily to friends in the waiting room, and goes over to chat. He has just been released after being arrested for drunkenness, and asks about his friends who had been at the same party. He is not embarrassed about being jailed. It is a normal occurrence.

Another woman comes up on the elevator. She says her son was arrested last night, wearing only one moccasin. She has brought the other moccasin for him. There is a conference about what can be done.

A waiting visitor turns toward you, and smiles quickly in companionship. There is no snobbery. Our people are accustomed to having husbands, sons, brothers, brothers-in-law, sisters, or even mothers, in jail from time to time.

They are accustomed to the process, the identification, the usually gentle but sometimes brusque comments of the deputies. It is a part of life, a reality.

Another group departs the visiting room corridor, and another series of unintelligible names blatts from the loudspeaker. Several people arise and enter the hall.

The speaker clamors again, and then a third time.

"Visitor for so and so . . ." A young man swarms to his feet and rushes to the window. "Did you say . . ." he asks. The deputy nods, although the youth's pronunciation is quite different than that which had come over the loudspeaker. "Why didn't you answer sooner?" asks the sergeant. "Why don't you learn how to speak?" counters the youth, moving off. "Sat there like a bump on a log," mutters the sergeant.

The woman who wants to bail out her husband is finally done with her phone call. She has told the bondsman much too much. In the waiting room, we know all about her, but we will not say anything. We, too, are vulnerable.

Finally the name you are waiting for comes through, and you are directed to a visiting room, a pale green hallway with a glass partition down the middle. On eash side is a row of stools. In front of each stool is a telephone. Your prisoner appears on the other side of the glass, and you sit down and take up the phone and begin to talk.

You have 10 minutes.

Vandals Hit Mateo School

San Mateo police took fingerprints and found a number of other clues to two intruders who threw powdered library paste around one classroom, and made a peace sign out of one batch, in the Bayside Middle School on Kehoe Avenue on Monday.

The persons who vandalized four rooms of the school were not small juveniles, they deduced, because of the height of one climb made by them.

Attempts at entry by removing hinges from several doors were unsuccessful, and the vandals entered another way, police said. The suspects ripped out two sprinkler pipes, smashed one door, and threw clips, pins and notebooks about, as well as other items, in four classrooms.

PANORAMIC VIEW PLUS
A Place To Eat, To Relax Or To Entertain
And That's Just The Patio Or Balcony

Very often the patio or balcony with a fantastic view will go unused simply because it is not "furnished."
At Hutton Terrace every apartment rented in September will be furnished with A Patio Party Set. One of the most impressive things about our adult apartment community is the view and we want to make sure you enjoy it.
When you add this to the spacious and rustic styling of our 2-bedroom, 2-bath apartments, the easy access for commuters, the restful seclusion of the Belmont Hills, the AEK with dishwasher and pool and recreation room, you have not an apartment — but a HOME.

IF YOU WERE ME!

You would remember how lovely I can be with my attractive front appearance ... lovely high beamed ceiling, pretty woods and floors, step up dining room that should be light and cheery when they trim the overgrown plantings back. My kitchen, I would love to have prettied up and I do have a nice breakfast area ... three bedrooms too and would you believe — a basement, ideal to convert to family room or great shop and hobby area ... I'm close to schools, across the street from Hillsborough. Walk to El Camino. Alas, I need a friend as my owner is out of the country and while my tenants didn't hurt me ... they really didn't help me. I am a good house with copper pipes, termite inspected with no problems ... come and see me I can be pretty again ... $48,000. Ask my owner to make some allowance for what I need!
